Augury, I

The world is calling out for the world.
In the throat, an endless mountain,
words rising, the shapes unnatural,
a bluish bit of hush at the centre.
See the circling hawk: there is longing here.

No existen lindes para el amor

A Latin rhythm stirs my desire
for a humid coastline,
where the only inhabitants, naked
against the elements,
are humanly adaptive.

A sultry notion—
wandering blissfully in the sparse shade
of the flowering palms, gathering the basics:
moistened mango drenched in sunlight,
a horny mate with liquid eyes
and the flesh of earth,
I'm thinking male but it could be anyone,

or anything. It could be a concept.
The details don't matter.
Boundaries do not exist for love.

And So, the Wind

I awoke to handfuls of light,
the cool wind pressing through a window.
Undulating curtains.
My blood sugar spiked, energy pumped
through my body's meridians.
I was as open
as new life blinking into the sun
for the first time,
a blank slate, ignorant
of our long, dark, collective history:
sooty traces of the Industrial Revolution
coating our lungs. Unaware of the naysayers and conspiracy theorists,
fascists and colonizers
fighting like wolves for the scraggy earth,
however fucked up;
I marked an X on the great,
white, marble museums
rigged with dynamite and set for extinction,
erudite civilizations
detonating into the atmosphere.

And so, the wind.

It came to me, in a shallow breath, that nothing mattered,
nothing at all,

it addressed me by name, this flush wind,
it rippled through me,
it rose and fell like a tribe of women, dancing.

Exercise in Stillness

I promised I would sit and meditate,
reach for my breath, my centre,
I would find my healing,
I would not, under any circumstance,
sabotage myself,
I would float, bob, wait, I would let the thing,
whatever it was,
come to me, I wouldn't push.
I would not entertain my waltzing –
or shimmying – thoughts, or those I carry
to the downtown bar with its drinks
in coconut shells,
I would sit like Siddhartha at the door
of Wisdom, steeped in light.
That was the plan.

I noted others on the same park bench
with the peeling paint, by the concrete fountain.
A woman with type 2 diabetes, I'm sure,
blocked my view as she waddled west
to who-knows-where.
She's always trespassing, that one.
Breathing loudly or slurping her pop.
I tell her it's rude but she doesn't listen.
Someday, I'll report her to the authorities.
Someday, I'll find someone decent
to talk to, a tenant on her porch
doing the Sunday crossword while her husband
in an undershirt
hangs a fresh sheet of flypaper.
But not today
while I meditate,
certainly not while I sit here
holding stillness in my arms.
Hold it—

a distant figure in shorts and sandals
is eyeing me. It looks like Joel
— yup, it is—
with his folded newspaper, signalling time
for coffee.
There's also an apartment he'd like me to see,
next to the power grid.

This Finite Moment

After a dozen years
our hibiscus is saying goodbye.
Last week,
we moved it outdoors for some natural light.
The sickly thing mustered the last of its will
and produced a stunning blossom.

The doctor says my anxiety will fade
when I learn to accept that life is finite,
when I firmly banish the idea of tomorrow.
Consider that astounding bloom, he says—

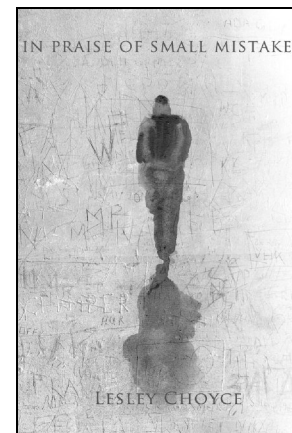

flamenco dancer in the final performance
of her career. Disregard her sweaty bow
as the curtain falls,
the dressing room where she sits at the mirror
removing her makeup.
Her rush to catch the last bus.
Ignore the Scotch she pours
as she tallies up her personal regrets.

Remember, instead, her Spanish dress
igniting the stage, her racing heart,
her duende
orbiting the nucleus of time.

Dark Wings

At first I thought it was a pair of gloves
black gloves tossed on the road
but unfortunately
it was a crow
hit by a car
but still alive.
As his family watched
I scooped him up
so gently
and wrapped him in
a bright red towel.

A dire crow in a beach towel
and me driving him to a thread of hope
me wondering why this one
was so incautious.
What lured him to linger
on asphalt
while some uncaring
idiot
the destroyer of small worlds
drove blindly on
removing those small margins
that allow dark wings retreat
to the safety of blue skies?

Burping the Baby at 5 A.M.

Not quite light yet
and the rocking chair
keeps time to my heart
as I sit here waiting for the reluctant dawn
feeding a granddaughter – just five months old.

The silence keeps us good company
in the soft dark fabric of pre-dawn
fire in the hearth
like a bright maniac mime
entertaining us both.

Genevieve is occupied
with the divine act of sustenance
while her grandfather
rocks the rhythm of the planet
from darkness to light
and then settles the child
onto his shoulder
tapping her tiny back
until the bubble is released
like an echo of energy:
we take in
we give back
we are all rocking back and forth
between nothingness and eternity
emptiness and fulfillment
as the bottle is drained
and the world fills up with
welcome news
of the endless future.

Everything in the World is Tired

It's not just you.
It's everyone, everything, all over
everywhere.

Civilization is tired.
Time itself is weary.
The seasons themselves have grown reluctant
to find the impetus for change.
Energy, in fact, is in short supply.
The universe is surprised
at the laziness of stars
the lethargy of galaxies.

Albert Einstein is retrieved from the grave
to determine if energy and matter
could call off the divorce
remarry perhaps
with the dual blessing
of science and religion
but he is reluctant to reintegrate
into unfashionable human form
given the persecution he endured.

His sense of humour may yet prevail, though
and he could return to Princeton
to his old New Jersey house
where we would rise from our sleep
and welcome him home.

Perhaps it is not that simple
to re-ignite the engines
of time and space
to shake off entropy
like a wet dog
fresh from the lake

to flip back the solemn blanket
of ethereal slumber
protecting us from ambition.

But we have hope
if we awake enough to realize
weariness is a blessing
a welcome pause before consciousness
another last chance to drift from cloudy dreams
before all the spinning
begins again.

Happy and Unhappy

Happy and unhappy at the same time;
that's how it is on some days –
the robin sitting on the railing
looking at me with concern
me with a coffee in hand
reminiscing about what was it?
Sorting through shards of a past,
wondering if any given fragment
is worthy of a poem.

Let's call it a Sunday sea-wind
of a morning
alone
happy and unhappy at once.
There is most likely a word for this
so I go searching and the best I can find is this:
saudade
from the Portuguese
who have apparently cultivated it
into art and song and poetry.

So here at the robin railing with coffee in hand
staring south and east across the tumultuous Atlantic (itself tumbling conflicting planetary emotions in its watery depths)
I wave
to my saudade brothers and sisters
in far-off Lisbon
and feel happy and sad at once
at 10 a.m. on this July 20
fifty years after a man
stepped for the first time
on the moon.

Blonde brick facade
Fails to deter local rapture consultant,
Friendly neighborhood ecstatic man
Gleeful with belief.
Brother Earl pronounces

That each defeat of the heart,
Each leave-taking
Must ignite a torch song for Jesus.
Any definition containing the word “God”
Is proof of God, according to Earl.

She protests, demurely.
He persists, naturally.
There is no convincing the devout
You don’t need convincing.
The righteous crave victory
More than fishes and loaves,
She, his undeserved indulgence.

Piqued, he spends days
Mane taming,
Malignifying
Every utterance
Out of her reluctant mouth,
Discourse so acute
She threw up her hand.
A signal.
STOP.
Let’s restart.
Imagine peace.

Expert at diminution,
He named her Heathen. Sub-human.
Steeply ignorant. Condemned.
Though the pious never cease flaming
Both remain sanguine. Standing.

Pseudocommando

Cave of an apartment.
Lonesome injustice collector,
Lame Prospero,
He maintains relations
With others based on envy,
Writes romances of revenge.

Between mean-street patrols
And bitch prowling, he corrals
The unwanted, hated, feared bits
Of himself to reassemble in
The form of an enemy
Who deserves merciless rage.

Manhunt

The Colonel defiantly birdlimes.
Favours an icebox.
Clotheslines. Sideburns.

He nobbles me at every party.
Blunderbuss, star philosopher
Flip flopping across the sand

To opine. Flap, flirt.
Surf my turbulence.
Overweening egghead,

Three armholes required.
He descends to my level
To parse, probe, fix

My diabolical lump. Such Easy-to-spot men. Easy to track. Easy to lose.

The Humble Muralist and the Reproachful Buddhist

Island roads are only as long as the island,
invariably leading to the vortex every island hosts,
the village or burg hugging the cove or bay,
the place where sweaty, unrepentant
cokeheads and alcoholics
wind up, gurgle down, to rub
elbows with the vigorous and Tilley-hatted,
swamping the gentry
with their nasty habit stench.

Island roads rove lowly
through swaying grasses, expansive elms,
past lambs, cows, horses, llamas
But do not be lulled.
Anxiety stalks the dales and hollows,
tamped down, concealed behind neat
rustic wooden fences,
skulking in the cottages
despite a glut of acupuncture outlets,
yoga, meditation and pottery classes.
Here there is much intestinal discomfort,
ceaseless aspiring, straining
toward the light.

Dolly for example is the biggest Buddhist
bad black sheep
herder on Paisley Island,
happily bending over
for regular shearing
as long as the taxman
is tranquil about it
and she’s back at the ranch in time
to inject herself
into the tête-à-têtes.

DIGITAL DICTATORSHIP AND BIOCAPITALISM

Richard Olafson

From many sides the hypothesis is now being formulated that in reality we are experiencing the end of a world, that of bourgeois democracies, founded on rights, parliaments and the division of powers, which is giving way to a new despotism; that, as regards the pervasiveness of controls and the cessation of all political activity, it will be worse than the totalitarianisms that we have known so far. American political scientists call it the Security State, which is a state in which “for security reasons” (in this case of “public health”), any limit can be imposed to individual freedoms. And the control that is exercised through video cameras and now, as has been proposed, through mobile phones, far exceeds any form of control exercised under totalitarian regimes such as fascism or Nazism.’

— Giorgio Agamben, New Reflections (April 2020)

In response to Covid 19, the World Economic Forum introduced ‘The Great Reset,’ a plan long in the making for the management and financialization of everything in the world. The WEF scheme allows for the endless growth of capitalism, while purporting to address the amelioration of climate change. A Kafkaesque project, not even Kafka could have imagined, entailing a complete re-engineering of our civilization and what it means to be human, a kind of Corporate Totalitarianism based on global surveillance and digital control over every aspect of our lives.

In June of 2020, Klaus Schwab, chair of the World Economic Forum (WEF), announced the beginning of the Fourth Industrial Revolution and stated that the global pandemic provided “an opportunity” for The Great Reset. A striking figure on the Davos pedestal at the World Economic Forum – looking perhaps a little too much like Dr. Evil from the Austin Powers films or alternatively, a sinister Bond villain – he unveiled a new kind of capitalism, “stakeholder capitalism,” driving the “novel” enterprise. Klaus Schwab is the most immediate representative of global power right now and he has written a little book, Covid 19: The Great Reset, in apparent response to Covid 19. Of course, he was able to slap together a 179 page book and publish it in 2 months! In this book he reaffirms the program that has already been available on the WEF website for several years – an economic and technocratic strategy that will determine what is a human being, for several thousands of generations to follow. Given this potential impact on the future of humanity, we should be paying close attention to the details of his plan. In Schwab’s 179-page book, COVID-19: The Great Reset, published in July, 2020, (BY whom?) he challenges industry leaders and decision makers to “make good use of the pandemic by not letting the crisis go to waste.”

“Many of us are pondering when things will return to normal. The short answer is: never.”

~ Klaus Schwab,
The Great Reset

Klaus Schwab has some very big plans for the world—very big plans—that comprise the underlying philosophy governing the intent of this book and suggested actions. The scheme is to restructure the world to fit a desired shape, and this book provides an abstract blueprint for ideas of how to recreate humanity as a digital, technocratic configuration. Covid 19 has provided the catalyst to fit the roundish world into a squarish ideology.

Klaus Schwab is chair of the World Economic Forum and his colleagues are some of the most powerful individuals ever to walk the earth, the elite billionaire class at the very top of a mind-crushing pyramid of influence.

Schwab’s vision of the future is a world run with precision and uniformity, a technocratic universe where food scarcity is addressed by laboratory-grown meat and chemically saturated vegetables; over-population is addressed by vaccines and digital bio-surveillance; education imagined as children encased in digital bubbles that can be tracked measured and monetized; and it will all be paid for not by taxes but by the valuable data that can be mined effortlessly as citizens surrender more and more of the sovereignty of their bodies to an anonymous corporate control. Nation States will mostly be used to control populations, a sort of Global/Robocop police force. This is the “New Normal,” after there is a vaccine: the privatization of virtually everything in the world, including the privatization of our bodies. Schwab’s stakeholder capitalism clearly serves a trans-national oligarchic caste that will take over the governance of Western “democracies”. The endgame, or the golden calf, of Schwab and his gang of stakeholders, made up of hedge fund managers, Silicon Valley Technocrats and global NGOs, besides the dismantling of democracy, is the privatization of life itself.

Klaus Schwab, architect of the Great Reset

Klaus Schwab begins his argument by explaining that Covid 19 is not a serious pandemic and that (“... the coronavirus is (so far) one of the least deadly pandemics the world has experienced over the last 2000 years...” He goes on to say that, “The corona pandemic is different. It does not constitute an existential threat.” He continues, however, to make a case that the “least deadly” pandemic in recorded history warrants a complete overhaul of our planetary system and our biological integrity. He compiles a list of familiar abstract ideas. Schwab says the form of the reset cannot be predicted, but says it will include “massive wealth redistribution” and “the abandonment of neo-liberal policies...” (p.78). He avoids any discussion of the problems inherent in such a change, or how such a change might materialize. There has been no public discussion or democratic discourse on the implications of such an enormous change to biological life on this planet, yet most world leaders seem to have signed onto this project without ever taking it to their electorate. His intent is to use a sledgehammer to get what the global elite want, to destroy the world as we know it and then remake according to his subjective design and the desires of the “stakeholders.”

This little book by Klaus Schwab should be paid attention to, not for its literary or philosophical merit, but for the nightmare for humanity it presents. The Great Reset will change the lives of all who inhabit ‘Spaceship Earth’ (Bucky Fuller) for many generations to come.

The Totalitarian Dream of Klaus Schwab

Klaus Schwab was born in Germany in 1938, at the height of Nazi power and he is truly a child of the Nazi era. His writing on social order displays a longing and desire for this kind of order he knew in his youth. While at Harvard, as a young man, he fell under the influence and mentorship of Henry Kissinger, who remains a dominant figure at Davos and whose book World Order was published at the same time as Schwab’s previous book, The Fourth Industrial Revolution. Kissinger, a veteran of many political adventures shares Schwab’s longing for a global World Order, a perfection that can only come from manipulation of information, his “Realpolitik”, and control of the population. As a student of Kissinger at Harvard, Schwab was schooled in world domination.

There is no question that the Great Reset was planned prior to Covid 19 (the documents were on the WEF website since 2017 and a ‘Covid 19’ title was hastily cut and pasted into position). The website also shows that the responses to Covid 19 were planned well in advance of the the Lockdown of the world’s economy. Covid 19 provided the catalyst and the opportunity, But the Great Reset was just a Mack truck already barreling towards our civilization before we even realized how quickly it would come to pass. They are in a hurry to complete this project and Covid 19 was the opportunity that sprung the plan into action.

The plan was first coined as “The New World Order”. That didn’t catch on so well with the masses. Neither did “The Great Reset” until Covid, when they ADDED

Covid to their book title, and ADDED Covid to The Great Reset documents on the WEF website (many of them going back decades). The great deception of the Great Reset is that somehow we need this kind of control matrix, or as Kissinger said in 2014, at a Davos meeting, “Never before has a New World Order had to be assembled from

“The problem that we have is not globalization. The problem is a lack of global governance.”
~ Klaus Schwab

so many different perceptions, or on so global a scale.” Since the global population could not stomach such a huge plan, a resetting and reconfiguring every aspect of human life, a major global crisis was needed to implement the Great Reset. The Great Reset is the proposed mechanism for setting in motion a new global order, a Technocratic World Government, that represents the aims and desires of a billionaire elite. As Klaus Schwab expresses it, “The pandemic represents a rare but narrow window of opportunity to reflect, reimagine, and reset our world to create a healthier, more equitable, and more prosperous future”

Overall, Heads of State around the world, have employed deception, misinformation and distraction to control their populations, following the directives of the social engineers at Davos, to become compliant and subservient to the New World Order. This is the most massive social engineering experiment since civilisation began, to realign the human personality, and to enslave all of humanity in a digital bubble, while the Global Elite asserts ownership over all the world’s resources (including human beings). This book is a 21st century Mein Kampf, ushering in a Global Totalitarianism, with the most seductive of meaningless words and ideas.

Utopia or Dystopia?

Although it is clear that Capitalism as a system is proving disastrous, the WEF suggests a reshaping of humankind to fit into the oversized shoes of Capitalism through a form of hybrid capitalism which he calls Stakeholder Capitalism, but a more accurate term might be Authoritarian Capitalism (the model demonstrated by China for example.) Utopia or Dystopia? That is an interesting question. If one examines the details as they unravel during the pandemic, it is clear that (aside from the sweet-smelling euphemisms such as “inclusivity” and “sustainability”) once the details are examined the Great Reset means Utopia for billionaires and Dystopia for everyone else.

Pandemic Profits

Let’s start by examining who exactly is profiting from the current Pandemic.

In November of 2020 Pfizer released a press release declaring enormous success with their vaccine testing and that the Pfizer vaccine was 90% effective and 100% safe. Within a few days, copying the success of Pfizer’s press release (not vaccine) Moderna released a similar press release that their vaccine was 95% effective in treating COVID19. The same day as the Pfizer announcement was made the CEO of Pfizer, Albert Bourla sold 5.6 million dollars’ worth of company stock as part of a preset plan. He had timed the stock sale to coincide with the announcement of the efficacy of his vaccine and its safety. Although the Pfizer and Moderna announcements were not issued or verified by any regulatory body but only the companies themselves, the media took notice, increasing shareholder value in both companies. Billions of dollars (perhaps trillions) were at stake in the rush to create the vaccine.

A modicum of critical thinking suggests it is ‘patent-ly’ absurd (pun intended) to suggest that Pfizer or Moderna have done the necessary due diligence to determine either safety or efficacy. Their vaccines have already sold in the millions, to governments around the world (Canada has pre-purchased 30 million shots) and the FDA, under pressure, has fast-tracked approval of the vaccines with no research on long term effects or the considerable short cuts taken by both companies. In addition, governments have granted vaccine manufacturers immunity from prosecution if they injure or kill someone. If you die after receiving the vaccination good luck to your estate in collecting any compensation. The manufacturers have no liability for vaccine-derived injury and cannot be taken to court. This legislation stands from 1986 in the US when Reagan signed it into law and Quebec followed suit. They have demanded the same kind of indemnity for these new vaccines around the world. No other industry is given this kind of freedom from responsibility, so for Bill Gates, a majority shareholder in both firms, it is the perfect business model.

There is no logical way that either company can make such a claim and the press release. Neither Pfizer, nor Moderna nor the FDA can answer serious questions such, as: Will the vaccine prevent death? Will it be effective on serious cases? Will it cause long term injury that cannot be detected in the first two month of testing? And moreover, what were the conditions of the test? Was a proper controlled group used? How many Covid patients was the vaccine tested on? And many more questions, none of which they have provided details on in their press release. In fact there are no details given on how these percentages were arrived at, but the tone of the discussion in the press is “Trust us because we are a vaccine company and this is science, which is why you should demand your government’s provide us with billions and put your arm out for the jab.” The fallacy of this position is already revealed in the number of deaths and injuries already occurring.

Should we Trust Pharma Companies?

In 2010 the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe (PACE) launched an emergency inquiry regarding the influence of pharmaceutical companies on the global swine flu campaign. Dr. Wolfgang Wodarg, head of health at the Council of Europe, accused the makers of flu drugs and vaccines of influencing the World Health Organization’s 2009 decision to declare a pandemic. Nations all over the world, particularly Europe, had wasted scarce health funds on a contrived “pandemic.” Signed by 14 members from 10 countries sitting on the EU’s Health Committee, the motion “Request for Debate Under Urgent Procedure on ‘Faked Pandemics – A Threat for Health’ was listed on the EU’s draft agenda.” This gives some insight into the corruption of the WHO, the drug industry and academic scientists that at that time damaged the lives of millions of people, and even caused death. By May 29, 2010, sixty deaths were reported 11,029 adverse events following the administration of the H1N1 vaccine. One of the more serious side affects was narcolepsy, which changed the lives of thousands who were affected by it, including one nurse who committed suicide because she could not have a fulfilling life or be able to work, as she, like so many who had taken the vaccine, fell asleep more than forty times a day. Although this was not as serious as the 1976 flu vaccine, also rushed into production for a pandemic, which caused large scale deaths and paralysis across the US and Europe, causing more deaths than it was intended to prevent. This is a summary of that fiasco from the British Medical Journal,

“A really efficient totalitarian State would be one in which the all-powerful executive of political bosses and their army of managers control a population of slaves who do not have to be coerced, because they love their servitude.”
~ Aldous Huxley

“In October 2009, the US National Institutes of Health infectious diseases chief, Anthony Fauci, appeared on YouTube to reassure Americans about the safety of the “swine flu” vaccine. “The track record for serious adverse events is very good. It’s very, very, very rare that you ever see anything that’s associated with the vaccine that’s a serious event,” he said.

Four months earlier, the World Health Organization had declared H1N1 influenza a pandemic, and by October 2009 the new vaccines were being rolled out across the world. A similar story was playing out in the UK, with prominent organisations, including the Department of Health, British Medical Association, and Royal Colleges of General Practitioners, working hard to convince a reluctant NHS workforce to get vaccinated. “We fully support the swine flu vaccination programme. The vaccine has been thoroughly tested,” they declared in a joint statement.

Except, vaccine had not. Anticipating a severe influenza pandemic, governments around the world had made various logistical and legal arrangements to shorten the time between recognition of a viral pandemic and the production of a vaccine and administration of that vaccine in the population. In Europe, one element of those plans was an agreement to grant licences to pandemic vaccines based on data from pre-pandemic “mock-up” vaccines produced using a different virus (H5N1 influenza). Another approach, adopted by countries such as Canada, the US, UK, France, and Germany, was to provide vaccine manufacturers indemnity from liability for wrongdoing, thereby reducing the risk of a lawsuit stemming from vaccine related injury.

On the appearance of the first case of “swine flu” the WHO changed their criteria for what is a pandemic (from a disease that causes wide spread death, a disease “against which the human population has no immunity, resulting in epidemics worldwide with enormous numbers of deaths and illness” to “Pandemics can be either mild or severe in the illness and death they cause, and the severity of a pandemic can change over the course of that pandemic.” This new definition allowed the WHO to declare a pandemic (on the advice of their advisory arm, which primarily consists of vaccine lobbyists) and nations were forced by the UN Agreement on Pandemic Preparedness to implement plans to purchase large quantities of flu vaccines, fast-tracked and untested, giving drug companies billions of dollars in profit. Dr. Wodarg believes the real reason behind the Swine Flu “pandemic” is money. The Gates Foundation and its many tentacles among vaccine companies are in the primary business of patent protection not health, allowing drug companies to make untold amounts of profit on their patents. In the end, although George Bush pushed universal vaccination saying that over 2 million will die of the pandemic, not a single death resulted from the Swine flu panic in Canada or the US. Not one. Zero. Yet, in Manitoba alone (to use one Canadian example) the vaccines had to be pulled as they caused at least one death (a woman had contracted the flu from the vaccine and died) and many other injuries. One CBS reporter, Sheryl Atkinson, reported that only a fraction of reported H1N1 cases were actually H1N1. Using a Freedom of Information Act request from the CDC, and by contacting each state individually when the CDC refused to respond. She discovered that the vast majority of cases being reported as H1N1 were not flu at all – instead, they were some kind of respiratory infection! Although there were no deaths from the Swine Flu, they caused thousands of vaccine-derived illnesses, including a debilitating narcolepsy, Guillain-Barre Syndrome (GBS) convulsions, syncope (fainting), blood and lymphatic system disorders, and immune disorders such as anaphylaxis, just to name a few – all events that can be life-threatening enough to end in death. One young nurse killed herself because she could not live with the life-altering effects of the vaccine-derived narcolepsy, that destroyed the quality of her life!

In an interview with PharmaTimes, Dr. Wodarg called the H1N1 pandemic “one of the greatest medicine scandals of the century.” That is true, until Covid 19 came along. The fast-tracked pandemic 2009-2010 H1N1 swine flu vaccine used in Europe turned out to be particularly reactive, causing many cases of narcolepsy across Europe. Now, parents, whose children developed narcolepsy following their swine flu vaccination, report their children are beginning to fall behind at school.

In 2010 Der Spiegel reported that a greedy and money-hungry conspiracy of government agencies and Big Pharma had faked a pandemic, for profit, and billions of dollars of vaccines were purchased that had to be destroyed as unusable, because the vaccine caused more injuries than the swine flu itself. The Health Committee of the EU Parliament concluded that the pandemic was “faked” for monetary gain, and their final motion on the matter was stated: “In order to promote their patented drugs and vaccines against flu, pharmaceutical companies have influenced scientists and official agencies, responsible for public health standards, to alarm governments worldwide,” It goes on to say, “They have made governments squander tight health care resources for inefficient vaccine strategies and needlessly exposed millions of healthy people to the risk of unknown side-effects of insufficiently tested vaccines.” (<https://www.spiegel.de/international/world/reconstruction-of-a-mass-hysteria-the-swine-flu-panic-of-2009-a-682613.html>) (and also the British Medical Journal, 2010.)

According to the British Medical Journal, “the Swine-Flu”-campaign, combined with the 2005/06 “Bird-flu”-campaign seem to have caused a great deal of damage not only to some vaccinated patients and to public health budgets, but also to the credibility and accountability of important international health agencies.” The conclusion of the British Medical Journal was: “In October 2009, the US National Institutes of Health infectious diseases chief, Anthony Fauci, appeared on YouTube to reassure Americans about the safety of the “swine flu” vaccine. “The track record for serious adverse events is very good. It’s very, very, very rare that you ever see anything that’s associated with the vaccine that’s a serious event,” he said.

Four months earlier, the World Health Organization had declared H1N1 influenza a pandemic, and by October 2009 the new vaccines were being rolled out across the world. A similar story was playing out in the UK, with prominent organisations, including the Department of Health, British Medical Association, and Royal Colleges of General Practitioners, working hard to convince a reluctant NHS workforce to get vaccinated. “We fully support the swine flu vaccination programme ... The vaccine has been thoroughly tested,” they declared in a joint statement.

But it had not been properly tested at all, similarly to the current vaccines proposed. Anticipating a severe influenza pandemic, governments around the world had made various logistical and legal arrangements to shorten the time between recognition of a pandemic virus and the production of a vaccine and administration of that vaccine in the population. In Europe, one element of those plans was an agreement to grant licences to pandemic vaccines based on data from pre-pandemic “mock-up” vaccines produced using a different virus (H5N1 influenza). Another element, adopted by countries such as Canada, the US, UK, France, and Germany, was to provide vaccine manufacturers indemnity from liability for wrongdoing, thereby reducing the risk of a lawsuit stemming from vaccine related injury.” (British Medical Journal, 2018)

Fear, however, has made some people in the pharmaceutical industry very, very wealthy. Mandated compulsory vaccines violate a fundamental human right, the right of informed consent and may compromise public health to a greater extent than a pandemic that may come and go. I have gone on at length concerning this past history as the current pandemic seems to contain striking parallels with the 2009 “fake” pandemic, including the observation that many of the same players are involved as in the past.

An Opportunity to Reset the Economy

Control of information has always been an imperious tool, even of the most democratic governments. The most alarming aspect of the hysteria around COVID 19 is the suppression of contradictory and accurate science, in favour of unscientific solutions that contradict their own science. Scientists who have contrary evidence are silenced, sidelined, smeared, threatened with job and funding loss, and even, in one case, jailed. That is a good motivation for health bureaucrats to continue with the deception. As Dr Jay Bhattacharya of the Stanford University School of Medicine, has said, “It’s quite clear to see for anybody who is doing deep research into the COVID pandemic that there is a big split within the scientific/ medical community as to whether or not the measures being taken by governments around the world, like lockdowns, masking and social distancing are appropriate, effective and necessary.” (“Facts, not fear, will stop the pandemic.”) He goes on to write, “It’s quite a concern to many that doctors and scientists who oppose the views and perception being given to us by mainstream media about the pandemic are largely ignored and censored.” He continues to say that the case fatality rate from the virus has dropped sharply since March, and that it’s now 99.95 percent for people under the age of 70 and 95 percent for people over the age of 70. He concludes by saying that, “The media have paid scant attention to the enormous medical and psychological harms from the lockdowns in use to slow the pandemic. Despite the enormous collateral damage lockdowns have caused, England, France, Germany, Spain and other European countries are all intensifying their lockdowns once again.” He joins a chorus of scientists and medical professionals that disagree strongly with the current narrative, including Prof. John Ioniddis, Luc Montegier (Nobel Prize winning epidemiologist), Dr. Wolfgang Wodang, and perhaps a couple thousand others.

Justin Trudeau, addressing the UN in September, 2020 described COVID 19 as an “opportunity to reset the economy.” One question that comes immediately to mind is, Opportunity for Whom? Certainly it is an opportunity for those who have vast stock portfolios, those insiders who are already billionaires or multi-millionaires, such as Bezos, Gates, Buffet. Is it an opportunity for the 300,000 inhabitants of earth that may perish per day because of Covid 19 measures? Is it an opportunity to the millions upon millions who have been thrown out of work because of “pandemic measures” or the children and students who have had their lives and futures taken away, denied access to a proper education? Is it an opportunity to the suicidal, the desperate, those living without hope, those who are now beaten down by “benign” measures, such as lockdown, of the pandemic? An opportunity to victims of domestic violence, those who live on subsistent incomes, those struggling with addiction, those who cannot receive proper health care because all resources are devoted to COVID 19? The millions consigned to crushing poverty, who have lost their future?

The reset is the Great Reset, in line with the UN’s Sustainability (what an oxymoron that one is!) Goals as expressed by the World Economic Forum. This opportunity is a smorgasbord of new financial markets and other financial instruments for hedge fund managers and other trans-national grifters, new financial instruments such as Human Capital Markets (mmmmmm? Isn’t that like selling humans for capital) and Social Impact Investing (mmmm? Isn’t that like creating wealth from other people’s misery). In ten years, if their plans unfold, we will be an entirely different species, and will not recognize the “humans” we will have become. (As it says on the WEF website, “By 2030, you will have nothing, you will own nothing and you will be very very happy.”) Even the small piece of land you inhabit, all your assets, including your “self”, along with your biometric data, will be managed by the billionaires and hedge fund managers who will not be subject to the same regulatory rules as ordinary people.

“The Covid-19 outbreak is the first big step towards unprecedented control over mankind.”
~ Klaus Schwab

The suppression of science and information has always been a product of social control throughout history. Giordano Bruno was a poet, Dominican friar, mathematician and cosmological theorist who was burnt at the stake in the 16th century for affirming the Copernican universe, with the sun at the centre, and for challenging the Church's Aristotelean/Ptolomaic conception of the spheres, which asserts the feudal hierarchy which justifies the order of the universe and which was the current accepted dogma of science of the time. Bruno questioned the science of his time in the 14th century and was tortured for having challenged the pseudo science of his time, which also challenged the feudal order. In a similar fashion scientists are now being censored, unless they are actors of the state, and YouTube, Twitter, and other corporate engines, censor real science while promoting the official fear narrative. (In Bruno's time fear was also used as a means of maintaining the old feudal order of the Divine Right of Kings and the supremacy of the Church.) Actual science is suppressed and called misinformation. It becomes almost impossible to make a clear-eyed judgement of what is true and what is false because social media has muddied the water, under the guise of protecting us from misinformation. Any who question the narrative or who dare to ask significant or scientific questions are now Giordano Brunos "burnt at the stake, signaling through the flames" (Antonin Artaud, Theatre une Double).

"Science is being suppressed for political and financial gain. Covid-19 has unleashed state corruption on a grand scale, and it is harmful to public health," as Kamran Abbasi, executive editor of the British Medical Journal wrote in a November 13th editorial. "Politicians and industry are responsible for this opportunistic embezzlement. So too are scientists and health experts. The pandemic has revealed how the medical-political complex can be manipulated in an emergency—a time when it is even more important to safeguard science." He goes on to say, "Politicization of science was enthusiastically deployed by some of history's worst autocrats and dictators, and it is now regrettably commonplace in democracies. The medical-political complex tends towards suppression of science to aggrandize and enrich those in power. And, as the powerful become more successful, richer, and further intoxicated with power, the inconvenient truths of science are suppressed. When good science is suppressed, people die."

The pharmaceutical industry was born out of the Nazi Deathcamps, where science drove the field of eugenics and the experimentation on human beings. Now, the Coronavirus has hastened the restructuring of civilization and culture, and has swept away all our old assumptions and expectations. Lockdown is a new idea for a pandemic but an early phase of their larger campaign of cellular colonization, an advance guard assault on our biological autonomy. DNA is the code of life and that is the prize of this new hedge fund paradigm. Eric Schmidt, CEO of Google, said, "Data is the new oil!" and to have access to this informational code will yield unbelievable riches for the billionaires. Life flows through us, like water, on the the spiral strands of DNA, but the Predatory Class wish to own the river of life, extract it, and then sell it back to us for a profit.

PCR Testing and the Governance of Fear

As the case numbers rise, the death rate from all causes remain about the same as in previous years, according to StatsCan. There are no excess deaths, however, death by the flu and pneumonia have gone down considerably. The PCR testing is what is driving public health policy. It is a story of the misuse of science and terror tactics on a global scale for pure financial gain that will be remembered in future generations for many years to come, or if they succeed, they will bury the information through algorithmic adjustments. Stanford Professor John Ionnadis suggested (and the WHO agrees with him!) early in the pandemic, that according to a mathematical model, the infection rate of Covid is no more than 0.14, about the same as a seasonal flu. The court in Portugal ruled that the PCR tests are only 3% reliable and display 97% false positives. Of the cases recorded by governments possibly only 3% of the cases are actually positive cases. In a November 15th, 2020 broadcast anchor, Sandie Renaldo of CTV News, claimed (based on the government's own figures) that there were to date 10,947 deaths from Covid 19 in Canada, with 10,781 of those death elderly patients and staff of long care seniors facilities. This section of the news cast was scrubbed from their site, but not before a video screen capture could be obtained. That is, 166 deaths were not in long care home, or in the privatised health care system. That was enough to lock down the economy, putting large numbers out of work, and to have everyone masked. In Canada, according to StatsCan, the average age of the death from Covid was 86, when's the life expectancy in Canada is 82. Of those who died, 96% of them had underlying conditions (heart disease, pneumonia, diabetes, etc.) It is unclear how many of them may have died from loneliness and stress, as many died alone, their families unable to say goodbye. In a recent study from John Hopkins University, researchers discovered that the death rates had not gone up significantly, yet deaths from all other causes (Flu, Heart disease, Cancer, etc.) went down by about the same amount as recorded deaths from Covid 19. "All of this points to no evidence that COVID-19 created any excess deaths. Total death numbers are not above normal death numbers. We found no evidence to the contrary," Genevieve Briand (author of the report) concluded. In an interview, she addressed the question of whether COVID-19 deaths can be called misleading (referring to US numbers) since the infection might have exacerbated and even led to deaths by other underlying diseases. "If the COVID-19 death toll was not misleading at all, what we should have observed is an increased number of heart attacks and increased COVID-19 numbers. But a decreased number of heart attacks and all the other death causes doesn't give us a choice but to point to some misclassification," Briand replied.

In order to understand the nature of the pandemic, it is necessary to understand the use of PCR testing in order to generate fear and control over the population. As the overall death rate, during the pandemic, has remained about the same, indicates that many of those dead did not die from Covid but from other causes, but were recorded as Covid deaths because they tested positive for Covid at the time of death. In the RT-PCR (reverse transcription polymerase chain reaction process) an RNA sample has to be changed to DNA by a process of reverse transcription. Then it exponentially increases copies of the DNA in a kind of "molecular xeroxing" in a chain reaction. The biological sample is amplified until a viral fragment becomes visible. It is generally understood that an amplification or cycle threshold (CT) of 17-20 is fundamentally accurate. After 20 CT diagnostic accuracy declines, and after thirty becomes wildly inaccurate. In Canada the Health Ministries test at CT of 35-45, which can create a 90% false positive rate. The conclusion is that these PCR tests are meaningless as a diagnostic tool to determine an alleged infection by a supposedly new virus called SARS-CoV-2. (The virus has never been isolated, so they don't know what it is or what they are looking for, but what they are looking for is something else that may be attached to the virus, not the virus itself.) Up to a Cycle Threshold of 17, the PCR test is fairly accurate (with about 40% accuracy!) (Dr. Fauci himself has admitted that anything over 30-35 CT is wildly inaccurate and will result in a false positive.) The FDA and the CDC and the WHO all recommend 40-45 CT which could result, according to several pieces of scientific data, in as much as 100% false positive but at least 80-90% false positives. This explains why, although "cases" are going up while deaths have levelled out and declined. Kary Mullins, who won the Nobel Prize for the PCR test in 1994, has disavowed the test and says that it is not accurate and should never be used as a diagnostic tool. The PCR tests are imprecise and lack specificity, that is it is unable to distinguish between one virus and all the others, especially at an amplification above 25. The PCR test cannot distinguish between a live virus and a dead one, between other coronaviruses (such as the common cold) or even whether there is the presence of a virus or whether there is an infection. The PCR test is more like a superstition than a medical procedure. The PCR test does not Measure active infection. It is ramped up to detect residual pieces of dead virus. An informative link regarding the PCR tests from Professor Carl Henghan and his teams at the Oxford University Centre for Evidence Based Medicine is here: <https://www.cebm.net/covid-19/pcr-positives-what-do-they-mean/>. PCR is extremely sensitive, which means it can detect even the smallest pieces of DNA or RNA — but it cannot determine where these particles came from.

Asymptomatic Transmission: Quarantining the Healthy

Another threat which necessitates the stringent biosecurity policies is that asymptomatic transmission, the masking, the social distancing, the isolation, the broken social relationships are reliant on the myth of asymptomatic transmission. Masks are neither an effective nor sensible public health policy. On June 7, 2020, Maria van Kerkhove, an infectious disease epidemiologist and the COVID-19 technical lead for the WHO, said that the available data from published research and member countries had shown asymptomatic cases were not a significant driver for the spread of the virus and that asymptomatic spread of the disease was "very rare." She was, of course, reprimanded for this revealing statement. However, there are peer-reviewed studies that confirm that statement. A recent study of 10 million residents of Wuhan China revealed that asymptomatic people do not spread the virus to others, nor do masks stop the spread from infected carriers. The Wuhan study stated, "The study found no 'viable' virus in

"The pandemic represents a rare but narrow window of opportunity to reflect, reimagine, and reset our world."
~ Klaus Schwab

the asymptomatic cases and the close contacts of these positive asymptomatic cases did not test positive.” Science Daily, <https://www.sciencedaily.com/releases/2020/11/201130131511.htm>) The study can be found at Nature Communications link: called Post-lockdown SARS-CoV-2 nucleic acid screening in nearly ten million residents of Wuhan, China it concludes “All asymptomatic positive cases and their close contacts were isolated for at least 2 weeks until the results of nucleic acid testing were negative. None of detected positive cases or their close contacts became symptomatic or newly confirmed with COVID-19 during the isolation period.”

There is no other scientific, peer-reviewed study of this or any scale, so are we to conclude that asymptomatic people do not spread the disease? There is no science to contradict this, so Public Health measures are both misguided and a failure. Asymptomatic spread was the answer given to why we should lock down, why we should wear masks and why we should socially distance. Lockdown has destroyed lives and dreams and social distancing has destroyed relationships (my son will not visit his senior parents, my wife and I, out of fear of spreading the virus). Why should someone who is not sick be locked down? Why are the healthy quarantined? And what possibly could it mean, in any case, to be sick without symptoms? Why are half the PCR-positive tests assigned to people who otherwise seem to be perfectly fine? Why is it that so many people who receive a positive test and are counted as a case never get sick and will never get sick? Because children are assumed to be super spreaders schools are closed, and for the rest of us we are assumed to be spreading the disease so commercial rights were vanquished, shelter-in-place orders from wartime were imposed, travel nearly stopped, all large events were cancelled, and so on. Health Policy seems to be working against the social system, to destroy all that makes life worthwhile, exacerbating isolation, distraction, depression, fear and other everyday challenges we all face.

In “COVID-19: The Great Reset,” in which Schwab challenges industry leaders and decision makers to “make good use of the pandemic by not letting the crisis go to waste.” The Great Reset, responding to Covid, is about multinational corporate stakeholders at the World Economic Forum controlling as many elements of planetary life as they possibly can. From the digital data humans produce to each morsel of food we eat. And to advance a global transformation to consolidate their control over every aspect of life, using the threat of death and disease to consolidate their control and increase their wealth at the expense of all life on this planet.

This is not to say that Covid is not present in the community, like many other diseases. If you are immuno-compromised you have to be careful, and take precautions, which is a sensible way to conduct Health policy. It is like a bad flu season, however, unlike a normal bad flu seasons, deaths have not gone up. But is this response about public policy or something more sinister? If it is about public health policy they have not looked at their own data, as their own data contradicts everything the health departments around the world are claiming. There are many tragedies around the world, caused not by Covid 19 but the stringent health protocols, including postponement and cancellation of elective procedures, mental health, disruption in food production and transport. heart disease, people with cancer having delayed treatment, disrupted cancer prevention, general healthcare disruption, violence (both domestic and homicide), suicides, starvation and famine around the world. It has been shrugged off by health professionals that the rates of suicide and opioid deaths exceed the number of Covid deaths. (There was one case of a woman, in Canada, who chose to be euthanised rather than live in loneliness, denied visitors to her long-term care home.) The World Food Program estimates that Covid 19 measures will push over 300 million into starvation.

Is this a proper health care policy whose consequences are far worse than the disease it seeks to contain? As Stanford’s John Ioannidis says, “I feel extremely sad that my predictions were verified.” As one of the world’s leading epidemiologists, he said “Major consequences on the economy, society and mental health have already occurred.... Globally, the lockdown measures have increased the number of people at risk of starvation to 1.1 billion...” The UN has since revised John Ioannidis’ number to 1.6 on the verge of famine. As James Corbett has said, “If you are advocating for lockdowns, you are complicit in tearing families apart. You are complicit in inflicting untold suffering on millions of people around the world. You are complicit in casting the poorest and most vulnerable in our societies into even further grinding poverty. You are complicit in murder.”

The PCR tests are being used as a tool and a social license to reset the economy in a final assault on humanity and the planet. Those who wish to Reset the world and human life need to change the way we perceive ourselves and our relationship to the world and to each other, to change our thinking and our idealism. Privacy and individual rights may be a problem for the global elite, however, as it interferes in data

“DNA ‘Covid-19’
Vaccines should give us
extreme control over
population worldwide.”
~ Bill Gates

collection and cataloguing. But that is part of changing the way we think: we are being bombarded with messages telling us that privacy is so “old school” and we don’t need it anymore. We can be open and free and happy, we do not need to hold onto our data, especially our health and mental data—we would be selfish if we did not give it freely. The Great Reset is about imposing a new economic system on the world, and if 1.1 billion people die of starvation, they are just collateral damage for the greater good. The PCR tests are the perfect tool to engineer the mass quarantining of millions upon millions other wise healthy people for the first time in history, for a virus that is not remotely deadly to them, since this data was available in March, these measures were not taken for a medical necessity so must be for some other reason. Klaus Schwab has designed a blueprint for the next several thousands of years, because the Great Reset will transform humanity in a process whereby the New World Order will last for one thousand years (sound familiar, ie. the Third Reich had a similar proposal for the world). In ten years we will not recognise what it is to be human. In 50 years we may not even be human. The social distancing, the masking, the dehumanization are all features of totalitarianism: they are the fuel on which the engine of total control runs. The next great battle will be for humankind to assert its human spirit against the imposition of a digital reset of what it means to be human. What is most concerning is the suspension of critical thinking skills among the population and the willingness to surrender all personal autonomy and belief to a small selection of oligarchic billionaires, out of fear and concern for health, which will result in the destruction of human life: an active participation in their own destruction.

The PCR tests have enabled the labeling of perfectly healthy, asymptomatic individuals as potentially infectious and a danger to the community and the mislabeling of many deaths, those dying of co-morbidities, worldwide, as caused by Covid 19. Public health measures have disallowed the visits of relatives to say goodbye or even allowing autopsies. An article in the British Medical Journal showed in 2010 revealed the financial ties that the WHO has to drug and vaccine manufacturers that led to the manufacturing of a “fake” pandemic in 2009.<https://childrenshealthdefense.org/wp-content/uploads/Godlee-2010-Conflicts-of-interest-and-pandemic-flu.pdf>

Is the PCR test accurate or precise? “We have a simple message for all countries: test, test, test.” Remember the World Health Organization (WHO) Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, who has advocated for PCR tests and other flawed responses to the epidemic, has the shadow of genocide in Ethiopia hanging over his head, when he was Ethiopia’s Health Minister and then Foreign Minister, where he has been accused of torturing, killing, arbitrarily detaining and torturing Ethiopians.” A report by Human Rights Watch identified Ghebreyesus as the key decision maker overseeing the “killing, and causing serious bodily and mental harm to, members of the Amhara, Konso, Oromo and Somali tribes with intent to destroy those tribes in whole or in part.” As the DNA sequences are doubled at every cycle, even a slight variation gets magnified which annihilates the PCR test’s reliability, and those who advocate for the use of PCR in COVID 19 diagnosis are blind to the inadequacies of the tests. This is foundational to the failure of public health policies based on the test, and these concerns should have been carefully considered before throwing the world into lockdown and pushing at least half a million people to the brink of starvation. A cursory glance at the scientific evidence would suggest that financial and political interests play a pivotal role in ignoring the science. The science is clear: the numbers generated by these RT-PCR tests do not in the least justify frightening people who have tested “positive” and imposing lockdown measures that plunge countless people into poverty and despair or even drive them to suicide or overdose on opioids. All that gives life meaning is taken away because of a flawed test and diagnostic failure.

Covid 19 appears to be the controlled demolition of civilization to prepare the world for a technocratic neo-Feudalism. The privatization of the commons, wealth and livelihoods taken away from large segments of the population, death and destruction from COVID 19 measures has already been enormous, killing millions more due to the health measures than the actual disease, the enforcement of rules that separate us and remove our humanity. We are being pushed into a world similar to Medieval feudalism, but with robots and complete biometric surveillance and global totalitarianism. In order to restructure the world, the WEF needed a crisis in to take a sledgehammer to the old economy, hence the Lockdowns. In order to ensure compliance and cooperation they needed fear and confusion in the population, hence the flawed PCR tests and the masks. Behavior Modification, through Blockchain technology, is embedded in the scope of the engineered pandemic, hence social distancing. This is leading us towards the introduction of a cryptocurrency system, which is neither cash nor currency but a comprehensive and globally

shared view of how
technology is affecting our
lives and reshaping our

system of population control.

False Positives and Medical Fraud: the Christian Drosten Case

German-American Lawyer, Dr. yttReinier Fulmich has initiated a court case against Christian Drosten, the WHO's Tedros Adhanom and Anthony Fauci of the CDC, for Crimes Against Humanity, in what promises to be the most significant legal case of the century. Christian Drosten is at the heart of all the Covid measures that have caused suffering and isolation around the world. He was also at the heart of the false and misleading Swine flu pandemic, that proved to be not a pandemic at all. The PCR-RT test was introduced very early on as a means of detecting cases of infection, when Wuhan only had 6 cases and it became the "gold standard of detection and became used by Public Health officials around the world.

Like the vaccines introduced now, it was introduced with ill-considered and indecent haste. Drosten published an article, titled, "Detection of 2019 novel coronavirus (2019-nCoV) by real-time RT-PCR" (Eurosurveillance 25(8) 2020), on January 23rd, 2020 in the scientific journal Eurosurveillance, of the EU Center for Disease Prevention and Control. Dr. Christian Drosten, along with several colleagues from the Berlin Virology Institute at Charite Hospital, along with the head of a small Berlin biotech company, TIB Molbiol Syntheselabor GmbH, published a study claiming to have developed the first effective test for detecting whether someone is infected with the novel coronavirus identified first only days before in Wuhan. Before the study was even published, it was sent to the WHO and was officially recommended by the WHO as the worldwide test to determine the presence of the novel coronavirus before the paper was even published. The corrupt Director General of WHO, Tedros Adhanom, the first non-medical doctor to head WHO, enthusiastically endorsed it as did, later, Anthony Fauci of the CDC.

By March, Angela Merkel said, "Most of you will become infected." A recent email thread was leaked from Angela Merkel's office, dating from March when she made that statement, that the German Ministry of the Interior worked with several scientists on a strategy to increase fear of corona, in order to foster understanding for drastic corona measures. Germany was in the first lockdown and the Minister of the Interior Seehofer was concerned about easing too quickly and instructed his State Secretary Markus Kerber to come up with a plan to create support for more stringent measures. Kerber sent emails to several scientists, universities and research institutes around the world asking to help plan "measures of a preventive and repressive nature". The scientists responded with proposals to put "fear and obedience in the population" on the agenda, including campaigns could be used with images of people dying of breathlessness because there are no ICU beds available. In the emails the scientists argued among themselves what the death toll should be, and an employee at an influential economic research institute, argued for the death rate of 1.2 percent. He wrote that they had to think "from the purpose of the model", which is to emphasize "a lot of pressure to act" and therefore present the numbers "better worse than too good". Working from "faulty" PCR tests, the German government would instill fear in the populous to gain a "mental and systemic" grip on the situation. Drosten's PCR tests would become an instrument of propaganda around the world for the emerging situation.

On November 27th, a highly respected group of virologists and microbiologist published a call for Eurosurveillance to retract the Drosten article, in a genuine "peer reviewed" article, accusing Drosten and others of "fatal" scientific incompetence. For one thing, they assert that the paper that established the Drosten PCR test for the Wuhan strain of coronavirus that has subsequently been adopted by the Merkel government along with WHO for worldwide use—resulting in severe lockdowns globally and an economic and social catastrophe—was never peer-reviewed before its publication by Eurosurveillance. In their criticism they point out that,

"the Corman-Drosten paper was submitted to Eurosurveillance on January 21st 2020 and accepted for publication on January 22nd 2020. On January 23rd 2020 the paper was online." They point out that a subject so complex and important to world health and security, a serious 24-hour "peer review" from at least two experts in the field is not possible. Drosten and his co-author Dr. Chantal Reusken, did not disclose a glaring conflict of interest. Both were also members of the editorial board of Eurosurveillance. Further, as reported by BBC and Google Statistics, on January 21 there were a world total of 6 deaths being attributed to the Wuhan virus. In their refutation of Drosten's paper "Why did the authors assume a challenge for public health laboratories while there was no substantial evidence at that time to indicate that the outbreak was more widespread than initially thought?" Another co-author of the Drosten paper that gave a cover of apparent scientific credibility to the Drosten PCR procedure was head of the company who developed the test being marketed today, with the blessing of WHO, in the hundreds of millions, Olfert Landt, of Tib-Molbiol in Berlin, but Landt did not disclose that pertinent fact in the Drosten paper either.

In the November 27th peer reviewed paper, Pieter Borger and his fellow scientific collaborators point out, "confirmed cases" is a nonsense number. They conclude that the PCR Test does not identify the Virus and Covid "false positives" used to justify the Lockdown and closure of national economies. The report identifies "ten fatal problems". They write, "This high number of variants not only is unusual, but it also is highly confusing for laboratories. These six unspecified positions could easily result in the design of several different alternative primer sequences which do not relate to SARS-CoV-2... the confusing unspecific description in the Corman-Drosten paper is not suitable as a Standard Operational Protocol. These unspecified positions should have been designed unequivocally." They also add that "RT-PCR is not recommended for primary diagnostics of infection. This is why the RT-PCR Test used in clinical routine for detection of COVID-19 is not indicated for COVID-19 diagnosis on a regulatory basis."

The key to the fraud perpetrated by Drosten and the Maerkel government is the manipulation of the amplification methods, which is based on the Cycle Thresholds (anything over 30 is meaningless). As the report says, The Borger report notes, "These types of virological diagnostic tests must be based on a SOP (Standard Operational Protocol), including a validated and fixed number of PCR cycles (Ct value) after which a sample is deemed positive or negative. The maximum reasonably reliable Ct value is 30 cycles. Above a Ct of 35 cycles, rapidly increasing numbers of false positives must be expected... scientific studies show that only non-infectious (dead) viruses are detected with Ct values of 35." It is a serious error that the Drosten paper does not mention the Cycle Threshold value for which a sample can unambiguously be considered a positive or negative test result. As it goes on to say, The fact that these PCR products have not been validated at molecular level is another striking error of the protocol, making any test based upon it useless as a specific diagnostic tool to identify the SARS-CoV-2 virus." In other words the PCR test of Drosten and the WHO is a monumental fraud, and the entire edifice of the Gates Foundation, the Who, Tony Fauci's CDC and the WEF as well as the case for forced, untested and experimental vaccines is meaningless.

In addition to this critique of the Drosten paper, by 23 of the world's leading microbiologists, Drosten and the officials at Goethe University in Frankfurt, where Drosten claims to have received his doctorate in 2003 are accused of degree fraud. Dr. Drosten's doctor thesis, by law must be deposited on a certain date with academic authorities at his University, who then sign a legal form, Revisionsschein, verified with signature, stamp of the University and date, with thesis title and author, to be sent to the University archive. With it, three original copies of the thesis are filed. Dr. Markus Kühbacher, a specialist investigating scientific fraud, charges that the Goethe University is guilty of cover-up by claiming, falsely, Drosten's Revisionsschein, was on file. The University spokesman later was forced to admit it was not filed, at least not locatable by them. Moreover, of the three mandatory file copies of his doctor thesis, highly relevant given the global importance of Drosten's coronavirus role, two copies have "disappeared," and the remaining single copy is water-damaged. Kühbacher says Drosten will now likely face court charges for holding a fraudulent doctoral title. German-American attorney, Dr. Reiner Fuellmich. In his charges against the defendants, Fuellmich cites in full the charges against the Drosten test for coronavirus of Dr. Pieter Borger et al noted above. This is in effect forcing the defendants to refute the Borger paper. It is a major step on the way to refute the entire WHO COVID-19 PCR testing fraud. Already an appeals court in Lisbon, Portugal ruled on 11 November that the PCR test of Drosten and WHO was not valid to detect coronavirus infection and that it was no basis to order nationwide or partial lockdowns. Christian Drosten also advised the WHO on the 2009 "fake" pandemic that was cited above.

The controversy around the PCR tests proves that there is science and then there is "fake" science. The draconian and unnecessary measures in response to Covid 19 were defined and imposed with the authority of a group of experts, including Merkel's Health Minister, Jens Spahn, is a former banker who has no medical degree, only a stint as a lobbyist for Big Pharma; Dr. Christian Drosten who faked his medical degree, with the aid of the Goethe Institute; WHO chief Tedros Abrahman is no medical doctor whose WHO is financed massively by a college dropout billionaire computer manager, Gates, who also advises the Merkel government on COVID-19 measures; and in the US, Tony Fauci, who has not practiced medicine in over 40 years and has a history of incompetence and falsification going back 40 years (see, the AIDS crisis and the 2009 pandemic, created to sell vaccines). From this mixture of fraud and incompetence, Lockdowns, masking and social distancing have destroyed lives, killed the innocent

This is Not A Vaccine: Messenger RNA

It would normally be absurd to attempt to vaccinate the world's population with an untested vaccine. If I had said a year ago that a certain individual, for instance, wanted to vaccinate 7 Billion people, I would be considered mad, yet here we are. The mass vaccination proposal is essential for the Great Reset, motivated by profit but also by population control and reduction. When the WHO called the appearance of SARS CoV-2 a pandemic, employing the new tools given to them by rewording the definition of a pandemic to mean a "disease that crosses borders" striking out the phrase "widespread death", it kicked into gear the contractual obligations of 195 nations to purchase vaccine supplies. Thus began the search for a vaccine.

Both Moderna and Pfizer have produced, under the aegis, in the US, of Operation Warp Speed, in record time a vaccine that would normally take 10 years to develop. Under Emergency Procedures authorization from the FDA, they were able to bring their vaccines to the market without animal testing and without any long term trials. The trials were done on individuals with mild and less severe symptoms and the vaccines were able to announce that they were 90 and 95% effective respectively. No tests were conducted on more severe symptoms, nor did they prove that they could prevent death from Covid 19.

These are not actually vaccines as they do not function like vaccines. A normal vaccine injects a less lethal disease into the recipient which causes the immune system to react. In most cases an adjuvant (often aluminum) is added because the disease molecule is not powerful enough to cause a reaction by the immune system. The risks for an untested vaccine of a highly experimental vaccine could be irreversible, irreparable and may affect generations to come. There is no way of knowing the damage that could be caused by RNA replacement without a generational study. As the companies proposing this highly experimental vaccine are absolved of all legal responsibility for any damage that may be caused by this intervention is on the receiver. (messenger RNA or mRNA is the ribonucleic acid that transfers the genetic code of the DNA of the cell nucleus to a ribosome in the cytoplasm, that is, the one that determines the order in which the amino acids of a protein bind and act as a mold or pattern for the synthesis of that protein.) They labelled them, through a semantic trick, as vaccines in order to be protected from liability and to realize the enormous profit that the protection brings. To assume this medical treatment is safe without long term study is irresponsible. However, Phase III of the trials are not complete and will not be complete until 2022, so the vaccination of vast numbers of individuals is doubly irresponsible. As about 95% have no risk from this disease nor will they die from it, it is absurd to consider vaccinating billions of people with a highly experimental injection. Dr. Michael Yeadon, former Vice President and Chief Scientist for Pfizer dismissed the need for any vaccines for COVID-19, writing "There is absolutely no need for vaccines to extinguish the pandemic. You do not vaccinate people who aren't at risk from a disease. You also don't set about planning to vaccinate millions of fit and healthy people with a vaccine that hasn't been extensively tested on human subjects."

The avarice and the access to political figures by the vaccine industry knows no bounds, and has enabled them to weaponize health care against us. The COVID-19 vaccine really isn't a vaccine in the medical definition of a vaccine. It's more accurately an experimental gene therapy that could prematurely kill large segments of the population and disable exponentially more. Since mRNA normally rapidly degrades, it must be complexed with lipids or polymers. COVID-19 vaccines use PEGylated lipid nanoparticles, known to cause (well documented in historical peer reviewed journals) anaphylaxis (which is occurring too frequently among the vaccinated). Free mRNA can signal danger to your immune system and drive inflammatory diseases. As such, injecting synthetic thermostable mRNA (mRNA that is resistant to breaking down) is highly problematic as it can fuel chronic, long-term inflammation. Many commonly reported side effects from the COVID-19 gene therapy "vaccines" appear to be caused by brain inflammation.

Dr. David Martin said, "This is about getting you sick and having your own cells be the thing that get you sick... This is not a vaccine... This is mRNA packaged in a fat envelope that is delivered to a cell. It is a medical device designed to stimulate the human cell into becoming a pathogen creator. It is not a vaccine." The Covid 'vaccine' will cause your cells to make pathogens. This is a bioweapon, not a vaccine." If you wish to market something that is harmful to people you want freedom from liability. Pfizer has paid out billions of dollars for false advertising and for deceiving their customers, knowingly causing adverse affects including death. The fines they have paid are kickbacks, the cost of doing business. The infectivity rate of Covid 19 does not warrant the rollout of unlicensed and untested technology, never before used on human beings. While it is unlikely that mRNA can affect the genetic Code, for it does not enter the cell nucleus, they do bring the Covid spike protein to the cell and the antibodies that respond to this new presence are attacking the cell itself, in fact going to war against one's own body. This is the definition of auto immune disease. This cannot be determined without long term study and everyone who volunteers in this experimental procedure should be informed that they are part of a human medical experiment. This is not a vaccine but a biometric gene editing experimental injection. This is medical fraud on a massive scale.

The Privatization of Breath: Masks and Social Distancing

Masking is a highly symbolic yet largely ineffective protection against Covid 19. In order to influence public opinion and spread fear like a contagion, masking embeds the "Stockholm Syndrome" deep within the special operation. The masked and helpless assert that it is their civic duty to comply with harmful public policy, without questioning its efficacy. Masks and social distancing are being used to persuade the population accept the robotization of humanity, the merger of human and machines, so the global elite may harvest our data like livestock. If we accept Fauci's latest directive to wear three masks we will cease breathing. Fresh air will become just another item to be monetized by the financial elite.

The Global Elite appear to be psychopaths in that they demonstrate no empathy. They see the inhabitants of earth as livestock, and the Fourth Industrial Revolution is a means to herd two legged cattle in an open air digital pen and begin a massive experiment on the global population. Many will die but those that remain will be imprisoned in a bubble of manufactured reality. As they assert electro-magnetic control of our bodies and our intelligence. This is Neo-colonialism pursued to an unimaginable scale. Humankind will be reduced, through the internet of bodies, to consciousness inhabiting bodies which we rent and do not own. Global masking is a preparation for the merging of human and machines, a goal stated on the WEF website. As Vandana Shiva, India scholar and activist, has pointed out, Bill Gates and his brethren among the Global Elite are rent collectors (Bill Gates has made the most money off of patent protection) and as they have looked about for more and more ownership, the last item to buy up is the Commons, but what they need is our common humanity. The Elite are so far from the rest of the world, so above us all in terms of wealth and influence, they see humanity as a resource to be harvested. Covid 19 has been a massive experiment on the entire global population, as the media and politicians pretend to an official reality that has no basis in any scientific sense nor basis in any quantitative fact. In order to declare ownership over the Commons, they need to tabulate and audit every living thing: to manage all assets, including Human Capital, which through biometric surveillance can be done at the cellular level. This data, harvested from humans and other living things, can be financialized for the Global Elite, who will collect rent on the living things they own. They have already begin to create these new kinds of financial markets on the Stock Exchange.

Masks are a very contentious issue as the proponents cling to them as a drowning man might cling to a leaking lifeboat. And leak they do! There are a number of misconceptions regarding masks, but one should always look to the scientific evidence. One recent study suggests that masking has a deleterious effect on the well being of children, causing both psychological and physical damage. And NBC reports that "It's all taken an unthinkable toll on children — a social, emotional and academic ordeal so extreme that some advocates and experts warn its repercussions could rival those of a hurricane or other disaster." Any rational person would perceive the toll this is likely to take on children, to deny them normal social development, to see all the adults around them as unfeeling robots, without a smile or a frown. "Making children wear face masks has the potential to cause long-term psychological, emotional and physical damage,,” as Dr. Alan Palmer says. “The reduced oxygen levels will increase anxiety, fatigue and brain fog, decrease learning capacity due to decreased oxygen to the brain, weaken their immune systems and can lead to an increased rate and severity of all types of infections, not just COVID-19.” Masks have two primary effects which is spreading like a virus: suppression of the immune systems with fear, loss of income, lack of exercise and sunshine and face masks whenever going away from home and keep the young and healthy people at home and sequestered from each other.

There are very few positive reasons or scientifically sound reasons for wearing masks universally but there are many documented reasons why a mask is ineffectual in preventing the spread of SARS CoV-2, such as the fact that it is an aerosolised virus and there is no evidence that masks will prevent infection by stopping the aerosol particles. According to every study 3M surgical masks can block up to 75% of particles measuring between 0.02 microns and 1 micron while cloth masks block between 30% and 60% of respiratory particles of this size. One study in 2015 found health care workers wearing cloth masks had a 72% higher rate of respiratory viral infections, compared to those wearing medical masks. A 2016 study found no difference in the infection rates of patients undergoing surgery, whether the surgical team was masked or unmasked. The effectiveness of masks was reduced by 20% after being washed. The wearing of masks lowers a surgeon’s oxygen level. A CDC report reveals that, of symptomatic adults with COVID 19, 70.6% always wore a mask and still got sick, while 7.8% of those that rarely or never wore a mask got sick. Another study found that children forced to wear masks for long periods could experience mental and psychological consequences and at least 17 physical risks derived from the wearing of masks.

There is overwhelming evidence that mask mandates have little or nothing to do with infection rates, as cases have risen and fallen, regardless of the rules around mask wearing. This remains controversial as the media in general have surrendered their responsibility and politicians and health professionals do not address the science in a transparent and logical fashion. There is an agenda behind the compulsory wearing of face masks and public health is not it. The Predatory Class have claimed ownership over our bodies and the mask is the symbolic yoke to mark our oppression.

Children Are the Target

The panic around the pandemic has pushed education towards complete digitization with all learning done online. It may never go back, in some places, because the investment community craves this data. It also would allow educational institutions from universities to grade schools, to be repurposed for the 5G smart city grids that are in the planning for the near future. Covid 19 has offered the Predatory class an opportunity to redesign education and along with it the minds, bodies and souls of future generations of children.

Why would anyone give their children this new experimental vaccine? We have no information on their long-term effects or what it might do when you switch on RNA at the cellular level, or when RNA is converted to DNA through a metabolic process. Children are not susceptible to this disease, they have little risk, according to statistics, and are not carriers of the disease, “super spreaders” as it were. Scientific evidence suggests the contrary. This is a highly experimental treatment, that has never been fully tested on either animals or humans. Every individual who takes the injection will be a test subject, a guinea pig, and the vaccine makers and the politicians who enabled them will just sit back and watch. Children are a key component: they can be trained at birth to accept this new reality, as they can be encased in their digital data bubble, excreting data like sweat that can be financialized on the market. “Smaller number of perfect people on a perfect planet,” as it says on the WEF website.

Children are a key target of the New World Order, because the education of children is an element of the Human Capital Markets. Forbes Magazine writes that by 2024 Human Capital Markets will be worth $24B and likely increase and grow from there. Bill Gates has long been a proponent of the Charter School System, investing billions into the restructuring of education, which is the privatization of the education market. For the Great Reset to take place, based on the financialization of Human Capital and lifelong data collection, it is necessary to train children from birth to accept the New Normal. For most of us the New Normal is a little bit strange but for children this will become a way of life. Hence, the media propaganda surrounding children as superspreaders (even though this is contradicted by science) and the fear mongering suggesting children may kill grandma if they go to see her. We are seeing the controlled demolition of social and family relationships: it is a great danger to hug another, to be close, to be intimate. Many grandparents have died alone, in this period, unable to be surrounded by their loved ones, and especially the grandchildren were not allowed, in many cases, to see them. Regulation demand no hugs and no contact unless you are in the same household, masking, social distance, lockdown. Children are a valuable resource, for the love they have to give, but in the mechanistic new world, all that matters is the data they can provide. The technocrats on Wall Street need that data, which is why education is moving online. Digital platforms like Zoom feed information back to a centralized source for tracking, which again feeds into Capital Market investing. Investors need to track the success and growth of their investments. It is why all the arts, all the business, may be conducted exclusively on digital platforms in the future, because the tracked data can be monetized, and the new markets created for the Great Reset are dependent on this data overreach. It is also why biometric sensors are needed to receive data at the cellular level. Those who do not have the proper data to offer will have limited value. The children of the future will lack the opportunities that we have had. The choices we made will not be available to them. In fact they may have no choice at all. They may be slotted into a path or stream from birth to death, and hedge fund or asset managers such as Black Rock will control their education and the direction it will take. All learning will occur at home and online, with the absence of socialization or in-person learning, where it can be tracked, monitored and monetized for investment bankers and asset managers. Students will be packaged up into bonds and traded in the markets. The Predatory Class will cannibalize all future generations of children for profit.

Blockchain: A Debt Cage from Birth to Death

Using the digital tools of online learning, as education of the young moves to be completely digital, data collections will be simplified and all children, as soon as they are born will be registered on Blockchain. Blockchain is a ledger system, roughly derived from Double Entry Bookkeeping, as a means of controlling and inventorying assets. It will maintain all your information of the Block: your birth certificate, drivers license, all manners of identification, health information and details on your behaviour or your social credit score. Social Credit will be delivered through a centralized cryptocurrency system and this will be linked to your behaviour. As soon as an individual is born they will be put on the Block, and this will be used to predict their development and potential outcomes. If one is prone to tantrums in preschool, this will be used to predict outcomes, and whether that child might grow into a troubled person. This information will be studied and recorded by algorithms without human interaction. Blockchain, running on the 5G grid, will be used to define your life, what your capabilities are, and what you will become, and this will be your slot from birth to death. You will receive Social Credit deposited in your account, and your tasks and work will be recorded on another Block along with your behaviour, whether you are obedient or whether you might be a little or a lot rebellious. The currency can be turned off and on depending on your behaviour or your success at completing certain tasks. The information about you will be gathered up and analyzed by Artificial Intelligence, and then packaged up into Investment Bonds, like a mortgage. It is similar to having a lifelong mortgage on your life. Investors will invest in your development and education (on digital platforms) and the debt to investors will be recorded on Blockchain. No one will be able to escape from the Blockchain. It will be a debt cage into which children will be born from which they will never escape. Blockchain will store and propel data for use by new financial instruments such as Social Impact Investing and Human Capital Markets. It is about the global biosecurity state tied to hedge fund human capital investments. Human identity will be considered an asset to the investor class and will be branded like cattle, through Blockchain technology.

Social Impact Investment: The Privatization of Poverty

Control and surveillance is central to this data collection system of 'pay for success' models. Social Impact Bonds is a financial tool, like Human Capital Bonds, for monetizing the human body, like the importing of black bodies into slavery to support the pillars of early capitalism. It is a system, operating on the Blockchain, to predictively program people as a burden on society. For information on Social Impact Bonds, as it concerns the Fourth Industrial Revolution, I am greatly indebted to the work of researcher and mom, Alison Hawvner McDowell. The Great Reset is nothing more than the ultimate privatization scheme, where privatization extends to the entire earth and the human body. This is aided by public-private ownership, where the investors would own the profits and the government would own the losses. One of the goals of the Great Reset is to redesign our economy and Social Impact Investing is essential to the reshaping of capitalism and is the most profitable to the rapacious venture capitalist class.

Social Impact Investment is the culmination of the takeover of government by private corporations. Social impact investing reduces human beings to the status of potential investments, sources of profit for the wealthy elite. "We must shift our economies to create positive outcomes," Ronald Cohen, the originator of this investment opportunity, declares. The word "impact" has been used in this context for the last 14 years. Recalls Cohen recalls, according to Winter Oak whom commented: "It was in 2007, at a meeting hosted by the Rockefeller Foundation at its Bellagio Center in Italy, that 'impact investing' was coined as a term to replace 'social investment'"

Cohen approvingly quotes Megan Starr, the global head of impact for the arms-dealing Carlyle Group (closely linked to the WEF and the Global Slite), when she remarked that "it's no longer possible to generate high rates of return unless you invest for impact."

Cohen argues: "The fact is that our existing social contract has expired and we are now in the process of drawing up a new one in the form of impact capitalism." Cohen talks about "a historic transition", "resetting investment for a new reality", and dedicates a whole chapter of his book to the thesis that "Impact investing sets the New Normal." Note his use of the term: "New Normal"

He writes: "Impact entrepreneurs leading delivery organizations will be able to raise the funding they need to implement their innovative approaches at scale, bringing systemic change – just as venture capital and tech entrepreneurs brought systemic change through the Tech Revolution." Cohen writes, anticipating Klaus Schwab: "It will take at least a decade to transform our system, and the transformation will unfold in stages: starting with impact investment and impact measurement; through the development of impact economies; to a new global system of impact capitalism".

The privatization of the role of governments across a wide range of spheres, in which bringing about certain social outcomes is treated as a potentially profitable financial investment at the core of Social Impact Investing. The fuel that drives these impact schemes is data, because investors need evidence of a positive outcome in order to justify the eventual profitable dividend. The New Normal for the large part of the world's population is that their lives will be regarded as nothing but investment opportunities for the financial elite and their hopes, fears, successes and failures reduced to statistics on a centralized database. Everything is a potential source of investment and, thus, profit – from nature to education, from the oceans to gender. The state plays a crucial role in their plans, as the merger of public and private which they seek is not the state-communist idea of government taking over business, but rather the fascist model of business taking over government. Compliance would be difficult and not easy to sell to the public as this represents a global slavery and human capital bond markets run off data generated by the World Economic Forum's "Internet of Bodies" with particular attention given to potential negative consequences for the Black and Indigenous communities, in the Third World, as they are marginalized, and stand in the way of resource extraction. However, Covid 19 is convenient for keeping everyone isolated in digital bubbles where data collection is efficient and available at all times. Social Impact Bonds are a way of reducing the responsibility of government to deliver social services to citizens by turning it over to the private sector. Investors will want a return on their investment, so they will fund projects or services that are more easy to administer and measure.

Promoted as a humanitarian response to social problems, it is a poverty management program, run not by government agencies but by private firms who will run capital through our bodies and minds in ways that do not have our best interests at heart. The investors will financialize poverty and trauma, to create stock value. There will always be the "useless class" who have no value or financialized data, and along with the Great Reset comes a population reduction plan. The Great Reset projects unlimited growth to the Global Elite and Social Impact Bonds offers an innovative way to grow the economy by raiding the public purse. It allows the wealthiest individuals in the world to gamble on people's health, education and poverty, at once selling it as humanitarian while keep stringent controls on people's personal lives. What is offered is data-driven telemedicine, Telehealth, tele-education, as investors bet on what the social outcomes of health, education and poverty are. An investment risk is identified on Blockchain, as Block chain contains your entire personality profile. Data tracking is very important as profit will be made on payments made when programs meet expectations. Careful monitoring of data ensures profit so there is always the careful structuring of the deal, by identifying bad risks or good risks. With Universal Basic Income the client will, over time, pay off the accruing debt, which will continue to accumulate as more services are used or offered; while wealthy investors gamble on future prospects ("Futures Markets") of real people woven into the oppressive operation of global financial market. Human potential will be subsumed within a colossal machine intended to profit from suffering.

These markets are designed to swell, to provide endless profit for corporate entities who are primarily responsible for the Climate Emergency. Money is made by calculating, with algorithms, estimating the cost or burden on society of a certain individual and if they can stabilize his life in a certain limited period of time, the amount they would save society would be the investor's profit, and the individual would be indebted to them. There is no incentive to eliminate poverty under such a system, as this system is driven by the lack of health and the lack of education, a managed system that offers no solution, just continued growth in the markets. If its intention was to both educate and to heal, the markets would not continue its growth. With the concentrated wealth, gambling on poverty and disease, only the elite are allowed to play, and they will bundle all that debt into a package and sell it and resell it as Social Impact Bonds.

There would be no exceptions except among the very elite: every one would be constrained by the Blockchain, which will function as reward and punishment. If you eat the right foods you will be rewarded. If you eat the wrong foods (that Slurpee!) you will be punished, possibly in the form of credit deficit. So you would want to go to the right movie, eat the right foods, vote for the right politician. Technology will allow authorities to intrude into the hitherto private space of our minds, reading our thoughts and influencing our behaviour. As risky or bad behaviour is identified this will provide an incentive for law enforcement to implement Minority Report-style pre-crime programs. "As capabilities in this area improve, the temptation for law enforcement agencies and courts to use techniques to determine the likelihood of criminal activity, assess guilt or even possibly retrieve memories directly from people's brains will increase, even crossing a national border might one day involve a detailed brain scan to assess an individual's security risk." The appearance of Covid 19 has been an ideal instrument to ensure the implementation of Global Heath Passports and cross-border vaccination programs. The Elite needed a Global Heath Event to transform everyone into a disease carrying creature of flesh, as unclean, potentially carrying a deadly microbe. It was this capacity to regard fellow human beings as mere bacteria which enabled the Nazi state to embark on its inhuman policies of racial screening, sterilization, castration, experimentation and mass extermination.

Human Capital Markets: Reality Estate

Forbes Magazine estimates that Human Capital Markets will grow to 24.3 Billion by the year 2025. In a world of chaos, human are proving the most difficult to domesticate: they are among the most independent of animals. In the predatory redesign of our social relations, where humanity is divided into the wolves (the oligarchs) and the flock of sheep scrambling to get into the slaughterhouse (us) nothing is more egregious and more carnivorous than Human Capital Markets.

As the rise of a new financial market indicates new opportunity for wealth creation, Human Capital Bond Markets are quickly replacing Real Estate as the most secure, adaptable, and fastest rising commodity in the financial markets, and therefore

"All things will be smart and connected to the internet," says Schwab, and this will extend to animals as "sensors wired in cattle can communicate to each other through a mobile phone network."

"As the novelty of wearable tech gives way to necessity – and, later, as wearable tech becomes embedded tech – will we be deprived of the chance to pause, reflect, and engage in meaningful, substantive conversations? How will our inner lives and ties to those around us change?"
~ Klaus Schwab

needs to be studied carefully to know what it is. Human Capital Markets are the new real estate, where speculators do not take possession of our land but take possession of our hearts, minds and bodies. Reality Estate, in other words. Real Estate has reached the endpoint of its value: as personal wealth uses to the topno one has money to buy into real estate, so as a stable market it is about to crash as the economy goes down./ The lockdowns have been and are about real estate acquisition, with small business going under and people losing their job, people lose their homes and the .001 % can buy up stocks, buy up real estate cheap. The masking, the social distancing, the confusing and illogical directives from health departments, all are meant to dehumanise all off humanity and drive us into a Digital Corral. As Data runs the Human Market Blockchain will be used as a cattle prod, to herd us into correct behaviour, into our enclosed space

Selling it as humanitarian, Human Capital Markets are governed by the push by global finance to turn everything into data for the purpose of digital surveillance and profit foundations are built on our nation's history of capitalist colonialism, eugenics, and techno-fascism; however, most mistakenly believe the purpose of these goals is to address poverty and avert climate catastrophe. Dreams are truncated, the pursuit of one's destiny is nonexistent human destiny is a mythical fantasy pursued on a video game. We will live shadow lives, with out avatars acting out the life we could have had "As Alison McDowell says, They're looking at an operating system for the world. It's essentially as if the world were remade by the CIA to profit hedge funds. How does capital circulate if nobody is making any money and everyone's in debt? You create a new game where the poor can be gambled on as investment commodities".

The Human Capital Bond Markets can be explained simply as governments will be eliminated in this new system services provided by governments will be eliminated to be replaced by investors. Education, health and so on will be provided by investors who will invest in you as human capital. Everyone is born with a potential value and a potential earning: in your lifecycle, investors will invest in your potential, similarly to Social Impact Bonds, When you get a loan you are providing collateral, or a promise to repay. We can think of this collateral as a claim on your future earnings. So a loan is in some sense a 'sale' of a portion of your human capital bond for cash. Through education, proper health care,, nutrition human capital can appreciate mental illness, unemployment, decline in health age can lead to a depreciation of human capital, injury or lack of digital expertise The human capital of someone may depreciate if he can't or won't adopt new technology or techniques. Conversely, the human capital of someone who does adopt them will.

Humans are commodities in a new world where the transnational capitalist class envisions a future where they can control vast swaths of the planet using 5G and Internet of Things sensors. For a young person starting out he becomes lifecycle of value that pays dividends on future value and he is a product to be inventoried and controlled in a world of social entrepreneurship, greed, and technological authoritarianism. The world that when you are young and you have many years horizon ahead of you, you borrow heavily against future dividends today for your education and your life, before you begin to excrete value and returns for the investor class. And go on margin, because that's the way you get the ready money and with that ready money you are going to make a lot of money. People who leverage heavily against future do not realize that the sky is the limit of what they could lose from future dividends as they pay back investors. The investor Class demands the generation of profit from investment, and they track the value of life according to the formula: Return on Investment equals the Cost of Investment divided by the Current Value of Investment minus the Cost of Investment. This is one equation that would determine the Human Market value of a young person.

When most people think about asset classes, they tend to think about things like stocks, bonds, real estate, and commodities. Investment advisors spend countless hours researching the risk/return profiles and correlations of these common asset class. Human beings become an investment commodity of their own, an asset, that can be used as collateral. Catherine Austin Fitts, a former investment banker has said that slavery ended, not because of moral outrage, but because banks could no longer offer collateral on slaves, because slaves can easily escape or the owners can sell them out west and the banks have no way of collecting on collateral. The second reason is slaves can revolt as in the Slave Revolt in Haiti in 1844. These two problems have now been solved. With digital tracking the Human Capital is always traceable and marketable, and revolt is impossible because of social distancing and digital tracking, thanks to the behaviour modification component of Blockchain. When you get a loan you are providing collateral, or a promise to repay and in this case, collateral is a claim on your future dividends on human capital bond, which can be traded and financed.

As in carbon trading, humans will also be codified and tracked and pushed in a compliant direction like Pavlov's dog. A key element of the Great Reset is private ownership and exploitation of everything and everyone. the creation of a people-centered Internet that will turn the masses into harmonized digital citizens of smart cities.

Vandana Shiva

Everything will have a valuation and be subject to predictive analytics and risk profiling. That is what is needed for technocracy to run smoothly. Things that should never be tallied, things like happiness, companionship, and the wonders of nature, will be factored into a giant balance sheet. The Global Elite require 5G to monitor people and nature, in order to profit from performance data. Global markets require 5G for wearable technology, telemedicine, online education, virtual reality CBT therapy, everything! The authorities cannot control and moderate communities to the targets set by the seventeen goals if they permit free discussion and consensus. They know that community empowerment would undermine human capital and social impact markets, so their answer is to force us to accept radiation, sensors, and digital ledgers. We must remain social distanced and controlled and simply not talk about it. They are property owners after all and the financial markets have been guided by the increasing value of real estate. But real estate has a limitation, especially in an environment where there is no fluid cash and unemployment has increased. They own the space we inhabit. They create our world, as we live in the space between paying rent or mortgages to the bank. The people behind the Covid Coup, the people laying claim to ownership of our lives, our land and our future, are the Stakeholder Capitalists and they now have us waiting in limbo while they decide how to sell this "New Normal" to us. In a rentier society we may end up renting our own bodies.

Vandana Shiva and Seeds of Hope

Vandana Shiva presents a framework for an alternative path, a natural world of unlimited possibility contained within simple growth, a world that is at once in perfect tune with the resonance of the natural world of the songs of the birds and the vibration of trees and the grass beneath our feet. A darkness is unfolding, manifested during this time of Covid 19, that is intended to break our connection to this world and to each other, to break our human bond with all organic and inorganic life. Isolated and imprisoned in a digital data farm, our bonds of love shatter in the glass jar of our new virtual life. To create this new digital paradigm it is necessary to centralize the financial system and centralize the food system, so that everyone who lives on earth, will flow into this one centralized system. To affirm this kind of control, the billionaires of Davos need to privatize and financialize everything, and gain access to our bodies and our minds. Davos billionaires have used their power and influence to gain control of willing politicians and weak governments and Covid 19 has allowed them to gain control and wipe out independent producers and the middle class, in only a few months. In Vandana Shiva's India the farmers have risen up in defiance of Modi's draconian privatization deregulation around the sources of food, the small farm, putting local agriculture at risk, to be replaced by mechanistic Agrobusinesses, to replace local food resources.

Vandana Shiva is an ecofeminist, author, lecturer, anti globalist, and a scientist with a degree in Quantum Physics. Vandana Shiva wrote Oneness Versus the 1%, before Covid, but it is more applicable to Covid 19, and the politics behind it. She has written an Afterword specifically for the Covid 19. I first became aware of the implications of the Great Reset, when she released a hastily made video called "Digital Dictatorship", at the beginning of the pandemic and brought our attention to Patent 060606 (aka Patent 666) by Bill Gates, that was approved on March 26, 2020, for a data mining process, using the human body as a conduit for a cryptocurrency system. She quotes this description of the Patent:

"Human body activity associated with a task provided to a user may be used in a mining process of a cryptocurrency system. A server may provide a task to a device of a user which is communicatively coupled to a server. A sensor communicatively coupled to or comprised in the device of the user may sense body activity of the user. Body activity data may be generated based on the sensed body activity off the user. The cryptocurrency system communicatively coupled to the device of the user may verify if the body activity data satisfies one or more conditions set by the cryptocurrency system, and award cryptocurrency to the user whose body activity data is verified.” (<https://patentscope.wipo.int/search/en/detail.jsf?docId=WO2020060606>)

According to Shiva, in July 2019, months before the COVID pandemic, Gates bought 3.7M shares of Serco, a military contractor with U.S. and UK government contracts to track and trace pandemic infections and vaccine compliance. To facilitate our transition to his surveillance society, we are told Gates invested $1 billion in EarthNow, which promises to blanket the globe in 5G video surveillance satellites. EarthNow will launch 500 satellites allowing governments and large enterprises to live-stream monitor almost every “corner” of the Earth, providing instantaneous video feedback with one-second delay. Gates’ company, Microsoft, has patented a sinister technology that uses implanted chips with sensors that will monitor body and brain activity. It promises to reward compliant humans with cryptocurrency payments when they perform assigned activities. Gates has also commissioned the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to build an injectable quantum dot dye system to tattoo stored medical info beneath children’s skin. The tattoo is designed to be readable by an iPhone app. Gates has also said publicly during a Ted talk, which was edited out of his TedTalk but Internet Archives has preserved a record), “So eventually there will be this Digital Immunity Proof that will help facilitate the Global reopening up.” This is very concerning as Gates has consolidated into a monopoly ownership of body activity in order to financialize it. “The patent is an intellectual property claim over our bodies and minds,” warns Vandana Shiva. “But that’s not the totality of Gates’ vision. In fact, it is even more sinister—to colonise the minds, bodies, and spirits of our children before they even have the opportunity to understand what freedom and sovereignty look and feel like, beginning with the most vulnerable.” (Pg 179) She calls this Digital Dictatorship.

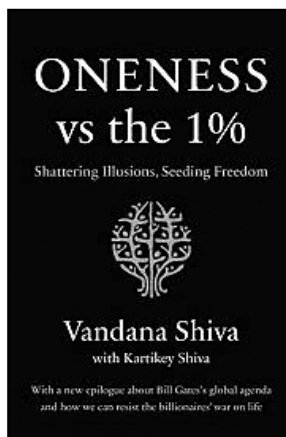

The Fourth Industrial Revolution is constructed on our separation from one another, the destruction of our communities, and disjunction of parents from children, neighbour from neighbour, friend from friend, and lovers from lovers. Vandana Shiva warns in Oneness Versus the 1%: “New forms of totalitarian control are being created through new methods of extracting superprofits from society, new convergences of technologies and new concentrations of power. The guiding principle of corporate globalisation is centralised, industrialised, and mechanised modes of production. Gandhi turned this principle on its head and envisioned a decentralised, homegrown, hand-crafted mode of production. In his words, ‘Not mass production, but production by the masses.’” (Page 162) Eric Schmidt CEO of Google says “Data is the new oil!” Social media are methods of extracting data and with new methods of extracting data from human beings, new financial markets are created, where the private data of human beings can be sold and traded for political management, for advertising, for commercial purposes. People’s knowledge, their friendships all become commodities that can be repackaged and sold. Vandana Shiva focusses her harshest criticism on Bill Gates, because of the linkages of his various holdings: from Monsanto, which sells toxic poison and GMOs to Agribusiness, is destroying biodiversity with its emphasis on monoculture, manufactured food, chemicals under the guise of health expediency, and the vaccine trade to cure the autoimmune diseases created by the toxic chemicals. Data mining brings all other corporate activity of the Gates Foundation together, as Health passports are meant to hold more than just health data. Eventually all that other information will be layered in, catalyzing commodities futures, Human Capital Markets and Social Impact Investing, trading in life outcomes. Human beings will be put on the Blockchain and tracked from birth to death. The World’s largest asset holders, and hedge fund managers, are anxious and impatient to run their capital through our bodies. The Stakeholder Capitalists at Davos desperately require the adoption of vaccine mandates. They need real time data, and they need for it to be inter-operable. The health passports make it possible to provide real time data in order to run the financialized global totalitarian world planned for us, and the Davos crowd would be very upset with any politician who might stand in their way.

Vandana Shiva saves seed as an act of defiance against the control of agribusiness, in the same way that Gandhi preserved the salt for his people, as under the colonialist apartheid that existed in India, the processing of salt was the domain of the British, who denied the natives access to their own resources. India, like Africa, has always the rich in resources (the investor class requires rare minerals for the 5G grid) yet their own citizens do not benefit from their own resources. As Vandana Shiva has pointed out, the introduction of GMO seeds on farmers created insurmountable debt and a rash of suicide among the small landholders. Debt is created in the same way the IMF creates financial resources: out of thin air. Though an artificial construct, this debt creates enslavement for for impoverished countries. Prior to the introduction of GMO crops, small farmers would save their seeds from year to year, in preparation for next years harvest. Then the Gates Foundation used property rights to claim ownership over the products of the earth, that had been traditionally free for thousands of years. Suddenly, because the seeds are terminal, they must pay for new seed from year to year, and incur debt in order to do so, while the Gates Foundation claims ownership over the fruits of the earth. Vandana has said, “Bill Gates is a rent collector,” as he “takes what the earth give us for free, imposes ownership over the earth and then collects rent.” In the same way, the British East India Company in 1600 claimed ownership over India and suddenly Indian citizens who had lived on the land for thousands of generations, had to pay rent to the world’s first corporation.

As Vandana Shiva says, “We’re beginning the decade of transition, the decade of possibilities. The decade of moving out of the fossil-fuel/poison dominated age, the age of hate and division and mechanistic reductionist thought, the age of separation, to an age of diversity and unity – an age where we are awakened to the fact that we are inter-beings and we co-create with the Earth. Our health is in the soil, our health is in the food, our health is in the diversity. It’s in this world of diversity, it’s in the world of inter-beings, it’s in the world of cooperation, that we create sustainability of living at peace with the Earth, and we create peace of communities of diversity living in peaceful societies.” What drives the management obsessed mechanistic model of life is the need to control and record and register every living think on the Blockchain. They intend to control access to life itself and for us to rent life from them: a debt based system of currency, using debt to control behaviour. What drives the “New Normal” is an anti-life, anti human paradigm. In order to exercise control they require a monoculture in agriculture and a singular, trackable life lived only through the virtual world where every aspect of life can be recorded and then rented from the billionaires. But for life to have any value it requires nuance, heterogeneity, contrast, as a monocultural soil is a dead soil; it is a geo-engineered world that will kill life as we know it and replace it with an artificial construct. “For soil to flourish and give us healthy and rich food, we need a diversity of elements in the soil, a mixture of dead and living that is the food of life. They are consumed by the idea that life is not of value, that it can be improved through mechanistic methods, and that an artificial life can replace real life.” Vandana Shiva offers the world an alternative, based on the richness and diversity of life, as the Davos crowd embraces an anti-life message, she answers this with a call to our basic humanity, based on community, building a connection with each other and with the earth as an answer to eradicating all future pandemics, and to alleviate the suffering of the earth. During the pandemic, governments under the instructions of the World Economic Forum, have disrupted human relationships, disrupted our relation to the world and placed us in isolated bubbles, away from each other, masked and alone. The world, and humanity, are under attack from mechanistic forces that seeks to destroy life itself. If we want a human civilization we are going to have to invent it through community and love for each other and the world.

There is no question that the Gates Foundation has caused a great deal of damage in Africa and in India, using highly experimental vaccines on the indigenous population, which have caused sterility, paralysis and death. A new order of governance is proposed, a world of total control through biosurveillance, enabled by the end of currency – a complete control system through cryptocurrency in partnership with Mastercard and GAVI, the Vaccine Alliance, another arm of the Gates Foundation. With Bill Gates’ billions of dollars he has come to control governments, media and health organisations around the world. He has claimed he wants to inject over 7 billion people with a vaccine for Covid 19, that may change human DNA forever, and securing billions in profit. He has said publicly that he wants to reduce mankind by 15%, using vaccines. In the past he has destroyed the lives of many using his vaccines (infertility in Kenya and India, the Gardasil vaccine causing death, the paralysis of 496,000 from vaccine-derived polio) and 600,000 people have signed a petition to prosecute him for crimes against humanity. This is considered a conspiracy theory but the facts are out there. He is using the media to weaponise our ignorance against ourselves. “The resurgence of real wealth must be based on the recovery of the commons, and on the creation of new commons that are beyond the reach of global corporations and the centralising, privatising corporate states. Twenty years of corporate globalisation, based on the WTO rules written by the ToxicCartel and the Agribusiness Cartel, combined with five decades of a Toxic Cartel-driven non-Green Revolution, have pushed Indian farmers to the brink. Instead of revisiting the unfair rules of globalisation and trade liberalisation, the corporations that created the distress are trying to turn the crisis into an opportunity to expand their profits and control. They want long distance trade and contract farming to lock every farmer into slavery, instead of the natural process of regeneration, creating new seeds they must pay a yearly rent on their seeds. They seek to intensify industrial farming and its monocultures. They are proposing ‘one agriculture, one market’, a slogan embodying monocultures and monopolies that governments are picking up as the new ‘development’.” The Gates Patent 060606 is perhaps the most egregious example of a colonialist invasion of the Commons, as Shiva writes, “The patent is an intellectual property claim over our bodies and minds.” She goes on to say, “But that’s not the totality of Gates’ vision. In fact, it is even more sinister—to colonise the minds, bodies, and spirits of our children before they even have the opportunity to understand what freedom and sovereignty look and feel like, beginning with the most vulnerable.”

Covid 19 has enabled the billionaires to establish a digital panopticon to encase and enslave all of humanity, where our data is always accessible and can be mined and finalized for profit. It is a prison whose bars are our fear of disease and suspicion of others. “The Great Reset is about multinational corporate stakeholders at the World Economic Forum controlling as many elements of planetary life as they possibly can. From the digital data humans produce to each morsel of food we eat.” And to advance a global transformation to consolidate their control over every aspect of life, and using the threat of death and disease to consolidate their control and increase their wealth at the expense of all life on this planet. The patriarchy and capitalism: their endgame is to feast on life itself, cannibal economics. The disease is offered as the cure: more control, more management of wealth by the very few, and the management of the population.

Covid 19 has been an exploitive tool that has enabled the 1% to coerce us out of fear and concern to surrender and participate in our own demise. Deflecting responsibility for the mass extinction ecocide and genocide away from the Poison Cartel to individual responsibility, from recycling to social distancing to wearing masks as a signifier of concern for one’s neighbour. The Climate Criminals who have brought us to the brink are now in charge of solutions, solutions which benefit them, to the exclusion of the rest of humanity. They create the devastation and then swoop in and refinance everything, manufacturing debt which they can profit from. “Killing is not a prescription for saving lives.”

A Prison of Fear: Human Microbes

As humanity enters a new evolutionary phase where artificial and augmented reality replaces the lives we have, where 3D printed food becomes our food source, and nutritious food becomes rare, where Zoom replaces any human connection, where humans become sources of Data traded on the markets, the human spirit, the spiritual fire that rises up from the depths of our being, will become even rarer, like the rare minerals, mined through slavery in Africa, that are necessary to drive the surveillance grid. The new Normal means the digitization of all aspects of life: digital agriculture, farming without farmers, trucks with out drivers, food without food and then, ultimately, life without life. They have created a “coersive economy which depends on them and their rent collection,” says Dr. Shiva. The billionaire wealth has grown by over a Trillion dollars during the pandemic, and this signals a move towards a more extreme capitalism. “Stakeholder Capitalism” indicates a pivot towards a feudal/fascist model on which human liberty, our value and right to life will be determined by our ability to consume, where all the world’s assets, organic and inorganic will be inventoried and held by the global elite. It is an assertion of property rights over life itself. Human beings will be of value only according to the amount of data they shed, like a virus, which can be packaged up into Human Capital Markets or social impact markets that will trade in human misery while biometric sensors track our every move. With this the World Economic Forum will save capitalism, by extracting super profits from us by turning society into a feudal-renter society, with a small ownership class of rent collectors. New convergences of technologies and new concentrations of power will allow them to invade and control our bodies, minds and souls.

It sounds bleak, certainly, but I cannot feel the bleakness when I see Vandana Shiva’s radiant smile, which offers some hope in the resilience of the human spirit. It has all happened very quickly and we have been caught off guard with the surprise attack of an engineered pandemic. The farmer’s strike in India, against Modi’s neo-Liberal pro-Corporation deregulation laws, is one simple example of the pushback that can occur.

Humanity is at a crossroads and we could devolve into the kind of Techno-feudal, semi-fascist society the WEF has planned for us or the human spirit will rise and throw off our feudal chains. But at the heart of the reengineering of life is the meaning of life. We do not really know what life is and it is still a mystery in us waiting to be discovered. When everything in the world is a commodity, a thing which can be bought and then consumed, life is another consumable. It suddenly appears and then is gone, like a flower that blooms once and then wilts. DNA is the code of life and to have ownership over DNA is a great temptation to own and control all humanity. But life is regenerative, a mixture of information and energy, but something else, some mystery that binds it, the seeds of hope scattered through the universe, an organic consciousness that artificial intelligence cannot duplicate. It is the binding power of hope and love that we give to each other that social distancing cannot sever.

A final word from Vandana Shiva, on why Gates and the WEF wish to move education online, so that all information about the children will be tracked and commodified: zoom, education on video. “That is why the indicators he promotes are attendance, college enrollment, and scores on a math and reading test, because these can be easily quantified and mined. In reimagining education, children will be monitored through surveillance systems to check if they are attentive while they are forced to take classes remotely, alone at home. The dystopia is one where children never return to schools, do not have a chance to play, do not have friends. It is a world without society, without relationships, without love and friendship.” A world without love is an abuse of all future generations of children. Vandana Shiva shows us the path to love is in the bonds we share with each other and the earth.

Stakeholder Capitalism and Democracy

The nucleus of the Great Reset and the Covid narrative is the rebranding of Capitalism with a new version called Stakeholder Capitalism. The intent of this exercise is to replace predatory capitalism with extreme capitalism lead by Technocracy. As Klaus Schwab has emphasized, “We should seize this moment to ensure that stakeholder capitalism remains the new dominant model.”

Klaus Schwab underlines, that there is an “order deficit” in the world and that only a rational, managerial class can oversee find value from such a disjointed world. Both humans and nature are dysfunctional and are in need of controlling harmony. Unmistakeable evidence that Capitalism is bankrupt is apparent by the collapsing stock market, which he interprets in purely economic terms where a deficit he sees at the World Bank translates into an “order deficit” in the World. I will repeat this again, Stakeholder Capitalism is a manipulated social design created for the investor class with no democratic input. The social engineers at Davos have rebranded predatory capitalism as population governance. Think of the world as a large livestock ranch, where the world’s population is the livestock.

The belief is that only Corporations can manage the economy (something that has filtered down into democratic politics at every level), only they can manage humans or manage food or manage the stuff of life. Politicians are the middle men, and with stakeholder capitalism they will eliminate the middlemen, as the population becomes managed by artificial intelligence and technocracy. Resources, and what once belonged to the commons, as well as personal wealth will all belong to the global elites, as the technocrats and tech billionaires manages the economy. “We will be very, very happy,” (Forbes, July, 2010) as we will not worry about the wealth we have accumulated for our grandchildren, as we will not have anything or own anything. We will rent everything. They are “rent” collectors (as Vandana Shiva calls them), privatizing everything, every blade of grass, so that their management, which is destructive ecologically and spiritually, will take the life force out of things. Capitalism is entwined with the patriarchy and cannot hide that fact by giving it a rebranding: their endgame is to feast on life itself in a sort of cannibal economics. The disease is the cure: the offer on the table is more control, more management of wealth by the very few, and the management of the population. Predatory Capitalism has run its course and is no longer viable, so the economy, the financial sector, needs a reset. In other words, Stakeholder Capitalism is intended to cover up a crime scene and to provide and alibi for the culprits. In short, we are seeing the consequences of deliberate attempts to game the global financial system for the benefit of the investor class, all while blatant lies and corruption are lathered on like paint on a decrepit household, justified and praised and denied by a cowardly media and a vacuous celebrity culture. Meanwhile we can look forward to our next meal of 3D printed chicken Nuggets or perhaps a synthetic Impossible Burger.

Stakeholder capitalism, creating wealth for the stakeholders, is antithetical to Democracy. Simple acts of liberty, such as breathing fresh air (without a mask) or walking down the street or going shopping become criminalized. It is a grand social engineering agenda to transform or redesign our society into some extreme form of capitalism. Schwab said, "The old capitalism is dead. We need a new kind of capitalism, 'Stakeholder Capitalism'." "Stakeholder capitalism" positions private corporations as trustees of society, governing the world's assets. The very people who created the problem are supposedly going to be in charge of solving it, with a little biometric slavery thrown. (John Ralston Saul warned of a "Corporate Coup in slow motion.") Deflecting responsibility for the mass extinction ecocide and genocide away from the Poison Cartel as Vandana Shiva calls the nexus of drug industries/pesticide companies/military-industrial complex to individual responsibility, from recycling to social distancing "we all must do our part to keep everyone safe." Capitalism is an extractivist theft of resources. It could not exist without theft, as it could not exist without slavery. Slavery has always been the driving force behind Capitalism. Stakeholder Capitalism, the new paradigm presented to us by the World Economic Forum, is an extreme form of capitalism that presents us with an extreme form of digital slavery. In the marketplace where ideas are sold there is a fair exchange of value. Something is offered and something is received in return of equivalent value. This is a fair exchange on a transactional market. In Stakeholder Capitalism the technocrats own all the cards, because they, like a priestly class in the Dark Ages, hold all the knowledge of how the system works.

Central to the reset is stakeholder capitalism as framed by the Davos Manifesto (Klaus Schwab, Why we need the 'Davos Manifesto' for a better kind of capitalism, December 2019), the Reset is specifically associated with COVID-19, as articulated by Klaus Schwab and Thierry Malleret (COVID-19: The Great Reset, WEF, 2020) and is a new economic system, powered by cryptocurrency and blockchain. Covid 19 cannot be understood, and the reactions to Covid cannot be understood without understanding cryptocurrency as a centralized system of digital control of our thoughts, our opinions and our biology. The Technocrats in Silicon Valley, who will be our Overlords once cryptocurrency is launched as a financial control grid, have the power to shape our reality and the average person may not really understand how advanced technology has become, so they may reject most of this as "conspiracy theory", until it materialises by incremental steps. If people really understood the complexity of this plan, they would reject it outright, so it was necessary to create mass compliance in order to transform society in a short period of time. How to perpetuate your stronghold on a society: indoctrinate the children, separate them from their family, wipe out the educated (or ostracize those who have alternative information) and jail those you can't kill or discredit. The youth will not have any memory of what it feels like to live in a relatively democratic society.

Resources management is a key component of corporate capitalism: in order to extract resources for free from the earth it is necessary to couch it in terms of resource management. The corporations suggest they are only managing resources, because they are better managers than the indigenous population, for instance. Women will be turned into breeders in the new data farms, and humanity will become factories producing data resources for the technocratic hedge fund managers who will trade our biodata as commodities as they harness our life force to the newly created Matrix. The primary Stakeholders of the Great Reset are the pillars of Financial, Agriculture, Health (through Pharmaceuticals) and Government and essential to the false narrative around health, created by digital media, is for the public to keep these pillars separate in their minds. The Stakeholders of the New World Matrix are visible on the WEF website and are revealed to be a conspiracy of mutual self interest.

BioCapitalism

"The real solution must involve a structural change. The feudal hierarchy which structurally imposes extortion schemes of money and violence on people by domesticating their humanity, to be harvested over and over within the capitalist framework, is inhumane and destructive to our species. Such an idea must not be brushed aside as untenable idealism if we are to live harmoniously with one another and with our environment." Hiroyuki Hamada, Global Research

"We have gone beyond the Internet of Things into the Internet of Bodies," says Xian Liu, Fellow at the Centre for the Fourth Industrial Revolution, World Economic Forum, on the WEF website, on their planning documents. Covid 19 is the catalyst that brings us into the Internet of Bodies, where our biometric data is monitored and mined for value. In order to have wide public acceptance of such a strange "evolutionary" direction for the human race it was necessary for some driving overriding fear to make the public compliant and to accept transhumanism as a natural course for evolution. Masks and social distancing are used in order for the population accept the robotization of humanity, the merger of human and machines, with the global elite harvesting our data like livestock. (It is incomprehensible how many have accepted the elderly dying of isolation and loneliness and stress, denied family visits, the affection of their grandchildren, their family gathered around them as they make their final journey. This is a disruption of natural human processes, and I cannot help but be reminded of the Nazi slogan, "Für Ihre Sicherheit" "It is for your safety." It is for grandma's own good!)

One thing is clear from Klaus Schwab's title book, this has nothing to do with the Coronavirus. The tech world and the financial sector are collaborating with governments and transnational organizations to advance an anti-democratic agenda of increasing centralized power. The financial system had reached its end and the movement of capital in a classical debt based system has reached a deadend, as liabilities have mounted, and there is no way to go but down, except for quantitative easing, to bring the system into some sort of balance. (A massive "quantitative easing" dump on Wall Street was announced by the Federal Reserve on March 11th, 2020, at the same time as the first "lockdowns" were proposed.) Biosecurity is intrinsically linked to the financial system and offers a new way of asserting control over the monetary system, through biological data (hence Mastercard, leaders of the cryptocurrency revolution, announcing their partnership with GAVI, the Gates funded Vaccine Alliance). At the beginning of Covid 19, all the countries came together simultaneously, with a plan to change monetary paradigm, to control resources through a central bank digital currency. The leaders of the Central Banks are colluding on a secret plan to transform the global economic system over the next few years. The Coronavirus epidemic has given them the perfect opportunity for accomplishing something that was impossible otherwise and the lockdown buys them time to effect the monumental adjustments necessary to bring this new economy into fruition. The population, using a combination of blockchain technology and biosecurity, will be branded like cattle as a way of controlling the herd.

This is a blueprint for redesigning our culture and what it means to be human in a grand technocratic state, a one world government propelled by a global surveillance grid, that will keep us all in an open air prison, a data farm, where information and data can be extracted, where a large portion of the globe will be disposable, but those who have some use will function as drones serving the needs and the greed of the global elite. Klaus Schwab's blueprint laid out here was all ready conceived long before this global pandemic. If we do not push back against Schwab's vision of life on this planet, because it is moving along so rapidly, thanks to Covid 19, in five years we may wish we were dead, we may wish our children and grandchildren not to be born, because of the horrors that will await them. We will have to decide whether we wish to surrender to an anti-humanist, sinister plan for the redesigning of not just society but evolution, or whether we wish to assert the human spirit and take back our humanity. This may be the most important decision we make since the first living cell split in half to become two. A broad social experiment, a new totalitarian governance —biosecurity— for which we are told not to question not to think critically because of fear of an invisible microbe.

The implementation of the Great Reset proposes a new governing system that conforms to the UN's 17 sustainable development goals. It works in conjunction with the advent of the fourth industrial revolution (4IR), in a way that allows for management and financialization of all people and things. New markets are created for the Stock Market, such as Human Capital Markets, the value of human beings on the global market, and Social Impact Investing, the financialization of poverty and digital tools are being introduced incrementally such as blockchain, AI, camera surveillance, body sensors, edge sensors called Internet of things, and wearables and injectables called Internet of Bodies are supposed to help computers keep track of all resources and information. In reality, what is being installed is a new economy where humans will be bio-metrically measured as human capital for the future digital workforce, starting with re-skilling and retraining of our children. AI will analyze our behaviour and nudge us into paths that it finds most suited, via lifelong planning paths and careers, and behaviour will be modified and controlled through the Blockchain Matrix. Humans will move into virtual worlds, from home, to earn a living, while robots and automated machines will replace most of our jobs and so in a cashless society, where your value is measured in our social behaviour, through badges and certificates, our digital portfolio and reputation will be closely monitored. As Klaus Schwab wrote in, Shaping the Fourth Industrial Revolution "the integration of materials with blockchain technologies could aid in the implementation of a global database for trusted materials sourcing and recycling provenance records."

An individual will not expect to live a fulfilling, independent life, but one whose value is measured in their thoughts and actions, closely watched, a life lived entirely on Blockchain, a system of rewards and punishment. This will determine your place and position in society. This is a "short simple" explanation of the Great Reset.. It is occurring right now as we sit at home in our cocoon watching Netflix and they are not hiding their plans for us fully described by the "stakeholders" of the World Economic Forum in public writings and their websites. We have surrendered all autonomy to the very entities that have caused the climate catastrophe we are living in. The propaganda has been very effective, as Vandana Shiva says, "Deflecting responsibility for the mass extinction ecocide and genocide away from the Poison Cartel to individual responsibility, from recycling to social distancing." If the last century has taught us anything it is that . During the Covid 19 period this Agenda has not been discussed by politicians or the media and it has operating in the open, with great hubris, but under the cover of a pandemic. This is a final battle for our humanity, and although we have not won and seem to be losing, because of the extensive levers, of mind control, we should not give up hope. The human spirit may be beaten down but it will survive. In the midst of chaos, in our time, reality has become provisional and the pandemic has awakened a collective desire for order, even to the point of the dissolution of all social bonds. Covid 19 has been an exploitive tool that has enabled the 1% to coerce us out of fear and concern to participate in and surrender to our own demise.

Capitalism

The few that have survived the lockdown live in fear that they might be shut down through health regulations. They are given tasks to do cleaning every surface endlessly, socially distance all their customers, wear masks all day, breathing in their own exhaled toxic microbes and CO<sub>2</sub>, in addition to the microfibrils shed from the masks they wear, which is not particularly healthy for any individual either psychologically or physically. The number of customers they serve is limited to a few at a time. The COVID 19 restrictions on small business are very onerous, and it will be surprising if any of the smaller businesses survive. Covid 19 is a war against humanity on a vast scale. While small business suffers capital its corporation seem to be thriving.

Small business is not capitalism. It is a state of being and a way of life, it is the marketplace where people come together to communicate and breathe the same air together. The marketplace has been intrinsic to human existence since long before capitalism began. We are taught that there is one good system: capitalism. And when we grow up in a capitalist society we believe that that is the way things are, that there is no other form or system appropriate to individual freedom. Communism enslaves man, as does nazism, or so we are told. But Capitalism is not the human marketplace, where good are bought and sold, where ideas are exchanged along with your services and goods. As Bertolt Brecht said, "Every day I make my way to the marketplace where lies are bought and sold. Happily I take my place among the seller." But he was living exile in Hollywood at the time.

Conclusion: A Terrible Transformation

Under the all-embracing shade of Covid 19, a rapid and terrifying transformation is taking place, of our culture, of our civilisation, of our existence or our humanity. After this transformation will human being even exist? It is unknown. But it is important to note that it is taking place without any discussion, without democratic oversight of any kind, the people who are most affected by it have not been consulted, yet their lives will be enchained by it. The media keep churning out the rising case number, the rising fear, the rising threat of this invisible microbe, and yet here is no mention of this move to imprison in a trans humanist digital bubble. The Propaganda has been so extreme around Covid that most do not even know this other Agenda although the planning documents have been available for years. Covid 19 has the same lethality as a strong flu, whose fatality rate is about 99.97 (even less for those under forty) and the majority of death have occurred in poorly managed, privatised care home. It is, however, the perfect opportunity to roll out a new technology and a new vaccine.

Although they have been experimenting with RNA vaccines for years, the FDA has never approved them for humans prior to this, and they are being introduced at this time for an emergency basis. SARS Cov 1 (from 2003) and this present SARS COV-2 are 79% similar to each other, and although the experimental trials are not complete for COVID 19, the 2003 iteration of the Sars COV virus did have some experiments with animals. All the tested animals died after receiving this experimental vaccine. This time they are foregoing animal trials, and going straight to testing on humans. Pfizer and Moderna have both been given the green light to ship their products by governments around the world, at "warp speed" to inject the population. According to the FDA and Pfizer, the vaccine is only in Phase 3 of its trial which will not be completed until 2022. This means that every one who takes this vaccine now is an experimental test subject, a position for which they have not volunteered for, believing the vaccine to be perfectly safe. Moderna calls their vaccine "the software of life" and that is what it is, an injectable software that messages DNA, to mix with our human nature, to harvest data from our central being. As Dr. David Martin has said, "This is about getting you sick and having your own cells be the thing that get you sick... This is not a vaccine... This is mRNA packaged in a fat envelope that is delivered to a cell. It is a medical device designed to stimulate the human cell into becoming a pathogen creator. It is not a vaccine." The Covid 'vaccine' will cause your cells to make pathogens. This is a bioweapon, not a vaccine."

Covid 19 has been the perfect opportunity to erase democracy, plateau our society, and to deny citizens the right to gather, to socialize, to earn a living, to be at one with nature and each other, to reaffirm our commitment to community. The longer the imposed restrictions of masking, lockdown and social distancing, with no scientific proof that they work, and with massive credible evidence that they do not work, the longer they have to transform our society. The banks have their centralised cryptocurrency almost ready, but not quite yet, so the lockdowns extend the period where they can eliminate all cash transaction and move towards the control grid, the aim of digital dollars. The transformation will be occurring incrementally, but each step will be sudden and mystifying as they introduce new way of being, new ways of consciousness: the internet of things becoming soon (after the vaccine) the internet of bodies; 5G; a web of digital interconnection that even our heart will send out a digital pulse; all life on earth monitored; cryptocurrency; smart cities; digital financial transactions contracted through either a digital chip or more pertinently through DNA; a vital signal implanted in DNA strands through vaccines; the monitoring of every single individual on earth; data mining through DNA transcription; control of all bodies, enabled through the governess of fear.

The intersecting grid of pulsing energy will be the bars of our prison. To create a stranglehold on society, the primary focus of the political and media campaign has been to target the young people. Indoctrinate the children, separate from their family, inculcate them while young to a virtual education lived on line, without the social interaction, where all information can be tracked and harvested, wipe out the educated elders and jail those you can't kill, the lower the voting age. The youth will not have any memory of what it feels like to be free or what democracy was, becoming accustomed to the New World Order. Covid 19 is a social engineering experiment of massive impact, where the interests of the four pillars of modern life align, agricultural, financial, government and the pharmaceutical industry. Between them they control every meaningful aspect of life: control of food, control of money, control of behaviour and control of health. To understand this control grid, which will be operated by 5G technology, it is important to understand that we are being offered an alternative to life, not life itself. As control, through the lockdown measures, is swept into fewer and fewer hands, which control the drivers of civilization, "the meaning of life" or what gives us a reason for being, will be collateral damage. For Agriculture, food will be either unsustainable monoculture from GMO seeds or lab-grown and synthetic food, or a combination. Currently, the financial system is in a holding pattern, as the banks continue with fiat currency, extending it long enough, to give them time to ready the financial markets for the switch to cryptocurrency. Cryptocurrency: this is not currency, least of all cash. It is instead a resource based economic system, never before tried throughout human histories. All the world's resources will be held by the Global elite and the rest of us will pay rent, in order to live, perhaps in order to breathe. It is about control, there is a behaviour modification component, made possible through Blockchain technology and controlled by the Central Bank. After the chaos subsides, and all Western nations are in a debtor condition, a One World Government will be proposed and the world will be divided into seven regions. Democracy will no longer exist and the world government will be controlled by a global elite of technocrats. Localized governments, such as Canada, will be used only for enforcement and behaviour control. Control of health will come in the form of vaccines and the health passport, which will contain more than just your biometric data. Health, and the fear of dying, is the perfect segue into the control grid, and the perfect system to operate the control grid and the gathering of data like wheat from a field.

Poets, writers, readers, thinkers, I exhort you now, you must consider this: What will poetry be like at the end of the Biological phase? When biology ceases what will the new human write about? What kind of poetry? What kind of music? Certainly we have all seen intimations of it online and through digital platforms, but what will culture look like when the final transformation has occurred, the final merger of our biological selves with technological logical singular self (as one self will become part of the larger amorphous self, chained together, encircling the globe like the Internet of Bodies a world wide web, absorbed into one global self, becoming one planetary system expressing the self that is one? Who will write our poetry in that coming age of one self encased in a singular planetary system, excreting data and energy, like urine or CO<sub>2</sub>, as its only purpose in life, while financial systems run by AI, without human interaction, reap our excretions of data, on a digital treadmill of behaviour modification followed by rewards? Hedge fund managers do not call it "Making a killing!" for nothing. Civilization is a vast web of interconnection that encompasses past, present and future through mutuality, compassion, communion and association, the interrelatedness that defines humanity through the calibration of body, mind and spirit that makes up this thing called a human being.

To the technocrats that are now making a play for ownership and finacialization of the world and life itself we are just a collection of inert blocks that can be manipulated and traded on the stock market. The WEF website says that by 2030 “you will own nothing, you have nothing and you will be very happy” suggesting that this new world will be ordered similarly to the software industry, that has been moving closer and closer to renting software and not purchasing it. To a billionaire that sounds like utopia but for the rest of it it may be a little bit of a dystopia. Covid 19 has been an exploitive tool that has enabled the 1% to coerce us, out of fear and concern for ourselves and for others, to surrender to and participate in our own demise. Schwab re-visions our world as a utopian world of perfection chosen by governing bodies. He has identified a primary deficit in our world, “If no one power can enforce order, our world will suffer from a ‘global order deficit’.” Coronavirus is the pretext to push through an agenda for managing nature and the population. The end goal is global totalitarianism where all aspects of living, organic and inorganic, will be surveilled and inventoried. In this new World Order the distinction between organic and inorganic will blurr, as biology blends with machine. “A smaller number of perfect people living in a perfect world.” Through this Manichean struggle we may discover what it means to be human, a struggle that art and poetry and music has always delineated but never solved. We are all at war and at peace with our bodies, but it is through human touch and human contact that we find our spiritual selves. The Great Reset is a plan but like many plans it may not come to fruition, but in the assertion of our humanity against the Great Reset, we may find for our selves, our humanity, to learn to hug each other, to be more intimate and aware of others, to find love and community and sharing. This is a moment in time when we must, in Auden’s word, “Love one another or die.” We must rejoice in our humanity, rise up and dance and sing and create art, to counter the forces that will take us down this dark path, we must cherish each other and love the love we have to give.

from WATCHING THE LIGHT

Poised on the Edge of a Pandemic

Snow in the forest clings to the underbrush;
packed ice on trails makes walking treacherous.
Mist over the mountains suspends the morning light,
preventing the sun from reaching the town.

Despite the cold and fear of falling,
I climb the mountain in the grey early day.
Tears of mist moisten my face.
My heart rises as it carries me beyond
hovering clouds of uncertainty.

From my brooding perch
high above the quiet town,
I see the streetlights extinguish one by one
as a new morning rises
and a silvery light
from the distant horizon beckons.

The Taste of Now

April 2020

On the banks of a swelling river in early spring,
I listen to the water's mercurial voice
chanting of renewal
in a desperate time.

Sitting on the shores of this river,
I feel my generation falling away,
as fleeting as the diving swallows
flirting over the flow of the stream.

I climb down to the river's edge,
scoop icy water
into the cup of my palm,
and savour the taste of now.

I bring home
a handful of water for you.
It holds a tang of the light
that shifts on the surface of the river.

Hope in a Time of Pandemic

It is early spring.
Defiant greenery
forces its fine shoots
up through frozen soil,
searching for encouragement.

I go to the clamouring forest
where buds on every branch
wait tentatively,
poised for the tingling moment
when everything changes.

Birdsong everywhere
scintillates the air,
flutters in my heart,
and tickles my bones.

I watch the morning mists lift.
From the highest trees,
the perennial leaves open
and praise the new day.

The View From Your Fiery Window for Donna

You sit by your fiery western window
as the room behind you dims.
The sky smoulders toward evening.
You turn to the glow of your inner light,
the hearth you have tended faithfully for so long.

Outside your door, the road is quiet;
the mountains are deep in shadow.
People walk by, keeping their distance.
All are wary of touch and the very air they share.

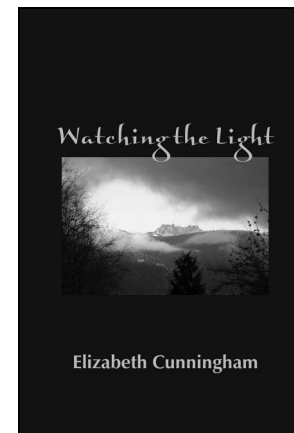

Your room is darkening further
as the full moon rises over the distant river
you know is forever meandering away,
but always constant.

In silence, all your kindred gather.
They are waiting for your stories to emerge
from the clamour of the past
and the beckoning of the future.

Like a lone grey wolf
in an immense forest of the night,
you gaze with longing
at the silver moon.

You raise your head in answer to its mystery
with the call of lost memories,
the yearning of the past,
and the foretelling of things to come.

Watching the Light Below the Storm for Donna, Lee, and Judy

We meet to read each other's stories.
We love them as no one else will ever do.
Tales of love, loss, grief, laughter
circling towards the layering of darkening clouds
on a luminous horizon.

Old familiar voices waver through our words;
shadows hover, waiting to be recalled.
We are surprised at what they have to say.

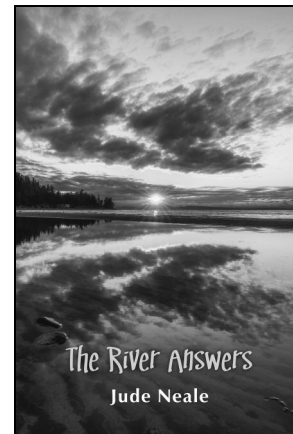

We whisper them like a conspiracy
of personal history written to illuminate the past,
forecast the future,
and hold the day to our accounting.

Together, we watch the light below the storm
coming across the mountains and down through the valley.
This is the storm we have seen coming for a long time.
This is the long light that endures.

Ode to the Bay

Have you ever hugged
A redwood tree
In a quiet forest grove?

Looked up to the canopy
To see the greening dome?

In the middle of the trees
In another time,

Sets the fragrant
Little Bay.

Releasing the tangy scent
That curled around the day.

I plucked some leaves
And breathed their freshness,

And drew them to my nose.

It smelled like soups and stews
That from my kitchen rose.

It comes to me in little bags
dried and waiting to be spent.

No smell, no taste,
No memory of the past,

It filled the room with scent.

When comfort thins,

And the curl of steam was gone.

I am brought once more
to that grove of Bay,

Ever reaching for the light.

This place with sun and trees

So tall, I couldn't tell
Long day from night.

And bush so dense it formed a wall
For the eagles perched on high.

Branches so majestic reaching out,
They cloaked the hidden sky.

And the wild Bay tree
Waited in the shadows,

To be claimed
And found anew.

I clapped my hands together
As if conjuring up a trick.

I plucked the leaf off the stem
Amidst the bush so thick.

So next time you use this herb
Don't think of stores and shelves.

Think of forests tall and shady glades
That will rejuvenate the self.

Within this place the moss
And flowers will always
breathe and thrive.

We'll once again
Be brought right back

To the blue Californian skies.

The Beautiful Truth of You

So much pain in me some days,

that I leak like a rain barrel
into ground that is cracked
and worn by the fist of loss.

How can I soothe this sore heart
that relentlessly beats even when

I turn my face to the wall,
mind caked with grief?

Where are you now, my darling boy?

Do you keep the words close
that I spray through the phone,

arrows aimed at the timeless
weight of loving?

The sky never blinks.

She just witnesses
the fine threads leading me

to the beautiful truth of you.

Soon

I love you. Will see you soon.

I knew this wasn't coming true.
I liked to dance with the night alone,

silence and the glow of the log
channel sustained me.

Tonight, would be no different.
I love you. Will see you soon,

always worked like a tick
in the neck, irritating,
and immediate.

I was going to watch
Britain's Got Talent,

and marvel at the ventriloquist -
who had exceptionally straight teeth.

I would write a poem about a man
who had dreams of laying still

in the dark beside a somnolent
wife, so I say to the walls:

I love you.
Will see you,

soon.

Summer Solstice

The trees are whispering
today, as branches sway
in the gentle breeze.
Birdsong soothes my
human heart.

Summer solstice is now
upon my doorstep, it shall
be the longest day of the year.

*Sun rays land on my shoulder
as I enjoy the warm breeze
of this first day of summer.*

Lazy days and barbeques;
hot dogs and fries cooked
outdoors beneath the bluest
of skies.

Cloud people stroll by,
offering their greetings.

The garden; exploding into
its summer season, a miracle
to behold; whispering through mortal soul.

Now, as evening comes nigh,
sun has cooled; she heads
home to sleep.

I sit and listen to the birds
sing their lullabies on this,
the longest day of the year.

Summer solstice, a day of light
and celebration.

Seasons

I am a woman of all seasons.
I can play on the beach,
or in the water; swim as I
languish away these lazy
days of summer.
Boating, flying kites;
yesiree , all in my per vu.

Winter brings a time of stasis,
deep contemplation, rest
and hibernation.
A celebration of snow
and Christmastime; snowmen
and toboggans.

Ah yes, I remember them well.

Cabin fever is a definite reality; for those who dislike
sedentary, a difficult season.

Here comes spring!

As I extract myself from my
winter cave and walk out into
the sun ~ I am alive!

I sew through the season:
Nasturtium, Wildflowers,
and Forget-Me-Nots, so I may
enjoy their splendid splashes
of colour upon the land.
Summer comes around once
more and another circle
in the spiral of life is done,
while a new one is now begun.

Dream Away, Sweet Sister

Many summers have I seen.
My older eyes, now awake;
I hear the call of the sun
at my door.

*Warmth of summer falls
upon me, as the breeze dances
through my senses.*

I reach up to touch the sky
as I watch the clouds
passing through my fingers.
Soft and billowy to lay
my soul upon.

As I dream, the sun sings
its warmth through
the chambers of my heart,
healing all the broken places.

Dream away, sweet sister, dream away.

Songs of the North

Deborah L. Kelly

Deborah L. Kelly has been writing poetry for more than 40 years. Having begun writing poetry in her teenage years, she discovered that it helped her to cope with the conditions around her during her youth. The author of four published books of poetry, both in Canada and Internationally, Deborah always enjoys a new challenge. An award winning poet and short story writer, she lives in the beautiful forests, edging on the Land of the Midnight Sun, in Prince George, BC. It is here Deborah spends her time writing, gardening, and breathing in the delights of her beautiful grandchildren.

Songs of the North

The songs of summer
surround me in the gentle
breeze as it moves through my tresses.

There is a song in the trees
of this great Northern land;
even the grass whispers.

*A great and glorious
symphony surrounds me here.*

My soul sighs as I am invited
by the sentients to join
their magnificent chorus,
in their songs of the North.

*The grass whispers;
the breezes touch;
sentients speak;
birds sing – whilst I sigh.*

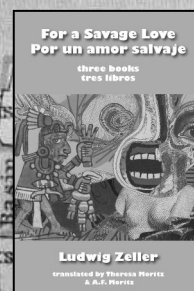

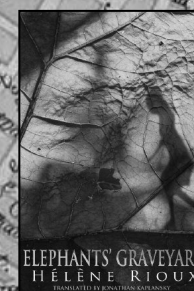

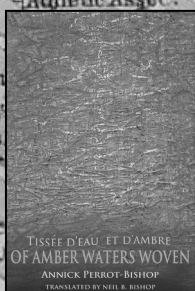

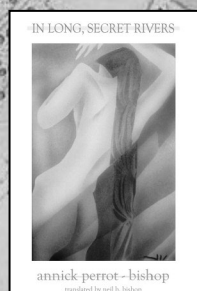

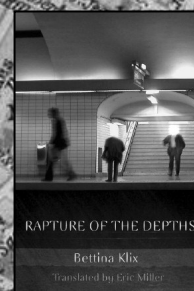

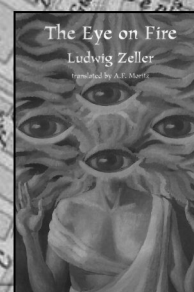

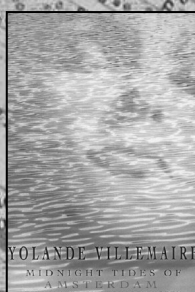

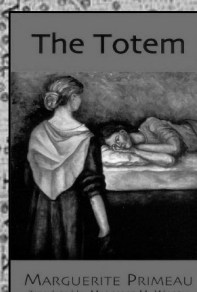

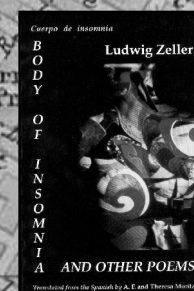

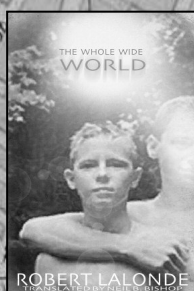

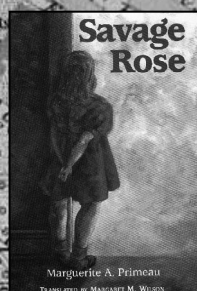

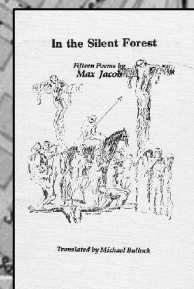

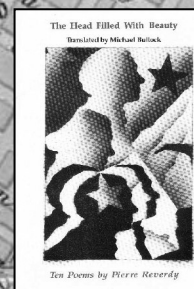

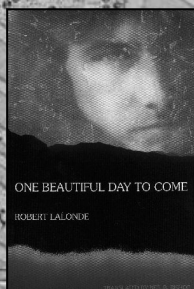

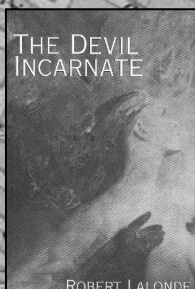

Music reaches a crescendo,
as each note climbs higher,
to be embraced in the arms
of Divinity.
